BANK MESSENGER ROBBED OF $1500 AND $1075 BONDS

Negro Employee of Savings
Trust Co. Held Up on Twenty-Second Street,
Near Eugenia.

ON WAY TO LAUNDRY WITH $1160 PAYROLL

Accosted When Near the Place by Two Armed Men,
Later Joined by Another, and They Take His Grip.

Three men held up a negro messenger of the Savings Trust Co. at 10:40 a. m. today on Twenty-second street between Walnut and Eugenia streets, and took a satchel containing $1500 cash and $1075 of Liberty Bonds.

The messenger, Charles R. Peters, who is a licensed watchman and carries a revolver, left the trust company, 4915 Delmar boulevard, a half hour earlier with the money, $1160 of which he was to take to the Fearless Laundry, 2121 Clark avenue, to meet its payroll today. The rest of the cash and the bonds he was to take to the Liberty Central Trust Co., Broadway and Olive street.

Peters, who wore a uniform and cap with the trust company's name in gilt letters, went by street car to Jefferson avenue and Lawton boulevard, where he called at a drug store and made a collection. Then he walked south toward the laundry.

On Twenty-second street, after passing Walnut, he saw two men. He said afterward that the men separated as he approached, and that one placed a revolver against his stomach and the other held a revolver to his head, while both tried to take the satchel from him.

As he still held to the grip, he said, a third man drove up in a purple automobile, got out, and helped the others to overpower him, and to take his revolver, which he carried in a holster. They then got into the car and drove south on Twenty-second street, he said.

He ran to the laundry and telephoned to the police. Policemen found several residents of the neighborhood who saw the attack on Peters. One negro woman said the car in which the robbers rode was a blue Marmon. She said she saw all the men get out of the car, and saw them use their revolvers and take the satchel from Peters.

Some of the witnesses who were farther way said they saw the men surrounding the messenger, but supposed an accident had occurred or that some joke was being played.

Peters is 50 years old. Lives at 4032A Finney avenue, and has been employed by the Savings Trust Co. 11 years.

14,000 ALIENS FROM ASIA AND EUROPE READY FOR RACE TO U. S.

Steamer Lines "Dealing in Dividends in Human Beings," Says
Immigration Officials.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Thousands of aliens from a score of European and Asiatic countries are hung over the rails of ocean liners in Gravesend Bay today, waiting the weary hours for the race to open the quota.

Thousands more are on speeding steamers from Mediterranean ports, France, England, Germany and the Scandinavian countries. In all 44 vessels, carrying 14,000 aliens will be ready to race for quarantine when the quota opens.

Immigration Commissioner Curran said that within half an hour after the rush begins eight quotas probably would be filled. At Ellis Island there are accommodations for one-tenth of the number awaiting entry. Many will be forced to return on shipboard from ten days to two weeks, Curran asserted. The commissioner laid the blame for the situation directly on steamship lines, declaring they were "dealing in dividends of human beings to satisfy their own greed."

BOATS' FIRE ON AMOY ALL NIGHT

Allies of Sun Yat Sen. Still Hold City.

By the Associated Press.

AMOY, China, July 30.—Soldiers of Ching-Tae-Ping, the ally of Sun Yat Sen, still hold this city today, despite desultory firing throughout last night by gunboats from the Pei-kin Government, which steamed into the harbor yesterday afternoon.

Casualties were few, but all communication between the international settlement and the business section of Amoy had been stopped to day and foreign business men were not allowed on foreign concessions. The British Consul, attempting to reach a ship flying the British flag, was fired on by soldiers from the water front. He sent a request to Hongkong for British gunboats.

SENATOR SPEAKS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

"Must South Forever Waive
Right to Select One of Its Citizens as Chief Executive?" He Asks.

By the Associated Press.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 31.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, in addressing a joint session of the Alabama legislature here today, declared that if the state delegation at the next Democratic National Convention named him as a candidate for the nomination for the presidency, he would do all in his power to lead Democracy back into the White House.

The senior Senator of Alabama received an ovation when he entered the hall of the House, which followed a demonstration given in his honor in the downtown section by a delegation from Southern Alabama, headed by Mayor R. V. Taylor, of Mobile. The Senator was introduced by Gov. Brandon, who declared he was commissioned to say that Underwood "threw his hat in the ring and make a fight to place Democracy back in control of national affairs."

He presented Underwood as "the new President of the Democratic Party." Senator Underwood expressed his hope that the next Democratic convention "will have the courage to face the international situation with the firm purpose to pledge the party, if successful in the elections, to take its place in the international family." Refers to President's Illness.

Senator Underwood referred to the illness of President Harding, and expressed hope for his speedy recovery.

"I came before you today as a Democrat," he told the legislature and proceeded to a discussion of the foreign and domestic relations of the United States.

The speaker declared that for the first time since the days of Washington, the United States was not showing a vital interest in European affairs.

"I appreciate the compliment paid Senator Underwood said. "When I received your resolution suggesting my name for the presidential nomination, I have been greatly honored in the past by the people of Alabama and no man could value these honors more than I do. To have my State chosen as the presidential candidate of my party would be the crowning honor of them—one that I would greatly cherish and be delighted to receive."

"Willing to Do My Part."

"I feel that the question of becoming a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President is one that I cannot decide for myself. The responsibility is too great for any individual to arrogate to himself the right to determine the momentous question. I have long represented the people of Alabama in the Congress of the United States; they are well acquainted with me and know my record. They know the principles that I stand for and the purposes that I seek to attain."

"If the people of Alabama may believe that I can properly represent them as the standard bearer of the great Democratic thought of the nation and are willing to send their delegates to the next national convention instructed for me, I will be the candidate of my home State that I enter the campaign. In reaching such a determination, I am not unaware of the difficulties that lie in our path, but have neither the financial support nor the organization to successfully make a nationwide campaign, but I do not expect that the friends of any particular contender for the nomination will control the convention on the early ballots."

"In the interest of party harmony and success to our principles, it may be wise if this proves true."

"Great Political Battle Ahead."

"A great political battle lies ahead of us—one that involves the fundamental principles of Government and the peace, the happiness and the prosperity of the American people. Our party should be eager to announce principles in its platform that ring true to the cardinal doctrines of Democracy as established by Jefferson, maintained by Jackson and reaffirmed by Cleveland and Wilson."

"We must not forget that it was under the advocacy of Thomas Jefferson that the "Bill of Rights" was placed in the Constitution and the liberties of the people of America guaranteed."

"We must not forget that local self-government secured for the people of the States is one of the cardinal principles of our government."

2.26 Inches of Rain at Richmond, Va.

By the Associated Press.

RICHLAND, Va., July 31.—Heavy damage was caused by a cloudburst and electrical storm here last night during which the local weather bureau reported 7.26 inches of rain.

Scores of persons were rendered homeless; stores, residences, manufacturing plants and other places in the low-lying sections of the city were flooded, much of the water having gone down to buildings, bridges, railroad tracks, roads and streets by the water, which reached a depth of 10 feet in front of the Union Station.

CONTINUATION OF NEGOTIATIONS HINTED

Parliament to Adjourn
Thursday, Leaving Cabinet in Charge of Situation
During Long Recess.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—The French and Belgian Ambassadors last evening handed to Lord Curzon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the replies of their Governments to the British note proposing negotiations with Germany to solve the problems of the Ruhr and the greater problem of German reparations. Thus, commonplace enough, ended one chapter in the trying negotiations.

Yet it is a question in the mind of the British public whether these notes do more than open another chapter in the wearisome process. If Premier Baldwin has brought about any change resembling finality or an allied agreement, he will be acclaimed as a miracle worker. But there are no signs that a miracle has been worked.

No Optimism Cherished.

Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon plainly cherish no such optimism. Both spoke briefly in Parliament—the Commons and Lords, respectively—on the position of the negotiations at that moment. Both were terse; neither voiced any hope that Great Britain and France had drawn closer together.

There will be an attempt to discuss the topic before Parliament adjourns Thursday, as the members are eager to learn the exact aspect of the situation.

No promise was given yesterday that they would likely see the same raised. The Premier, speaking to the agents closed in on them, the youths, one of them shooting at the officers. The agents, after returning the fire, captured a youth, who said he had nothing to do with the theft, but had been injured when he fell from a pile of ties in the yards.

Groans in the weeds to the agents to where Ezeland lay dying, and the second youth disappeared.

The officers, John Smith and Walter Gubler, said they first observed the youths carrying tires from the car into the weeds nearby. When the agents closed in on them, the youths ran, one of them shooting at the officers.

King George Deeply Concerned, Will Send Message.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 31.—King George is deeply concerned over President Harding's illness. The King will send a message of sympathy and hope for improved health as soon as he receives news of Mr. Harding's sickness through official channels.

The Daily Chronicle, personal organ of former Premier Lloyd George, devoted its leading editorial today to President Harding, hoping for his early return to good health.

Pershing Says Americans Should Hope and Pray for Harding.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—The Naval transport Henderson, President Harding's ship, arrived in San Francisco Bay early today in response to wireless orders sent her yesterday when she was off the California coast, en route from Seattle, where the President left her, to San Diego, where he had planned to board her to travel through the Panama Canal and home.

The transport anchored in Man O' War Bay, but it was expected she would proceed sometime today to the transport docks at Fort Scott, there to await further orders.

One outstanding feature of this latest chapter in allied dealings has been the deep secrecy which surrounded it. There have been no attempted revelations of details of the British note, nor of the French and Belgian replies on any important points, except such as intelligent guesswork, based on knowledge of the policies of the two governments, could offer.

The Italian and German ambassadors also visited Curzon this evening, but there is no reason to believe that the German's visit was connected with reparations, for Germany is still in the position of awaiting a reply to her latest communication. It is believed that the German ambassador will discuss the latest developments in the financial chaos of France.

Italy Takes Middle Ground.

It is not yet known whether the Italian ambassador presented any written answer to the British note, although the Associated Press correspondent in Rome says that the Italian Government has dispatched one which takes the middle ground between the British and French. British officials say that Belgium's reply contains elements of a constructive plan in which respect it is believed to go beyond French and Italian.

After the British parliament adjourns Thursday, both the French and British cabinets will have charge of affairs during the long parliamentary recess. Premier Baldwin will be 10 cents per copy.

President's Room Well Situated for Sick Man

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S sick room is a guest room on the top (eighth) floor of the Palace Hotel, known to thousands of San Francisco visitors. Looking from three arched windows over a balcony toward the hills on western and northern San Francisco, and though it is barely a stone's throw off Market street, the city's chief thoroughfare, is so far above the pavement as to be little disturbed by the noise of traffic.

The appointments of the suite are such that according to Brigadier-General Sawyer, the probability of moving the President to a hospital for treatment need not even be considered.

"We are as well equipped to take care of Mr. Harding right here in this hotel, as we would be anywhere in the world," said Gen. Sawyer.

No Airplanes Over San Francisco
During Harding Stay.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.

NO airplanes will be permitted to fly over San Francisco while President Harding remains here.

An order prohibiting private planes from passing over the city was issued today by Police Chief O'Brien, as a result of a conference last night with secret service officers here with the President and army, navy and postal air service planes are confined by regulations to definite sections on the water front, near the landing fields and on the outskirts of the metropolitan area.

PRESIDENT IMPROVES; TEMPERATURE DOWN; PASSED GOOD NIGHT

Official Bulletin Issued at 10 A. M. Says
There Has Been No Extension of Pneumonia Areas.

TAKES NOURISHMENT AND READS PAPERS; HEART ACTION BETTER

'Had a Fairly Comfortable Night With Considerable Restful Sleep' Physicians Announce.

Feels Less Exhausted.

By Charles G. Ross,

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, Who Accompanied President Harding on His Tour.

PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Official word came at 10 a. m. today that the President's condition, which his physicians last night regarded as grave, improved materially during the night. Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, the President's personal physician, previously had made a brief oral statement to light was thrown on the condition of the heart.

Pulse, temperature and respiration were said to be about the same as the previous report—that issued at 5:10 p. m. The figures then given were: Temperature, 100.6 degrees; pulse, 125; respiration, 44.

These compare with normal temperature of 98.6 degrees; normal pulse of 74; normal respiration of 18.

The quickened respiration was regarded by physicians as the most significant danger signal.

Dr. Sawyer talked for half an hour, answering questions with the utmost care. He did not then know when pneumonia would develop but admitted its possibility. What was more probable, he said, was the development of an inflammation of the lungs, which would be as serious as pneumonia.

Tour-Lessened President's Vitality.

Dr. Sawyer pointed out that the President's capacity to resist disease began to be lessened even before he left Washington by the burden he put on himself in getting ready for the trip. The deterioration of his reserve strength continued through the speech-making, the necessity of pausing speeches on the train, the only free speech he had, and finally when the trip started—all took their toll. Finally came that terrific day in Seattle, ushered in by the collision of the Henderson in a fog with a destroyer. The accident caused the President deep concern; his first question was "Is anybody hurt?" While in itself it probably had no material adverse effect on the President, still it was one of a series of events calculated to pull down the vitality of the man.

The President began the day at Seattle—Friday—with fever and ended it with fever, plus a dividend. He exerted himself that day, in a brawling, without stint. Everything—I am still paraphrasing the remarks of General Sawyer—was cutting down his capacity to resist. He entered the fight against infection with a badly handicapped physical machine. The organs could not function at full capacity. There was no telling what organ might be affected by the strain.

"The storm warnings are up," said General Sawyer, "that is what I mean by serious."

General Sawyer would not preface how long the President would have to stay here. He would say that if all complications cleared up and pulse, temperature and respiration returned to normal during the night, it would be at least four days before the President could safely be removed.

Executive Is Cheerful.

To illustrate the cheerfulness of the President, he told of a conversation with him yesterday afternoon. The President was informed that the doctors wanted to make an X-ray of his chest. "Bring them on," replied the President, "I have nothing to conceal."

Again, when the five physicians gathered for a consultation, he remained in a cheerful grin. "Go ahead, and when you get through I may dispense the whole lot of you."

Answering questions, Dr. Sawyer said that Mrs. Harding had stood the trip and was standing the strain of the President's illness remarkably well. Nothing, relating to the President's condition, he said, had been kept from her. She had never left her home.

"She is one of those women," said Dr. Sawyer, "who are a bear under fire."

Aspects over the President's condition were presented as a result of the bulletin issued by his physicians yesterday afternoon after a consultation. The bulletin contained the flat statement that his condition was serious and the further disquieting information that there was evidence of congestion in the lungs. This congestion evidently was a development of the hours between 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. since the morning bulletin had reported that the lungs were clear.

While the reading of the first bulletin was clouded for the lay mind by a scientific term, that of the afternoon was in easily understandable language. The change was due to representations to the doctors by some of the President's advisers, who urged that the bulletin be simplified so that the public might know the President's condition without resorting to medical interpretation.

Future Plans Only Tentative.

A decision was reached yesterday to abandon the boat trip, via the Panama Canal, and return to Washington overland. The President himself participated in a discussion of

Yesterday's Bulletins on the President's Condition

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.

THE bulletin on President Harding's condition issued by the five attending physicians yesterday including that of 11 a. m. follow in the order in which they were made public:

"The President had a fairly comfortable night with several hours' sleep. His temperature at 9 a. m. was 101, pulse 118, respiration 33. The abdominal symptoms following the digestive disturbance which he experienced on the boat (U. S. S. Henderson) are now localized in the gall bladder region. There are no peritoneal symptoms; the lunks are clear."

"There is some cough and evidence of congestion in one lung. He has taken some nourishment.

"Except for weakness and restlessness he has been fairly comfortable during the day though his condition is a serious one."

"At 9:15 p. m. "Definite central patches of broncho-pneumonia in the right lung, as indicated clinically. The organs could not function at full capacity." There was no telling what organ might be affected by the strain.

PRESIDENT DELIVERED 60 SPEECHES AND TRAVELED 7500 MILES IN 39 DAYS

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.

HERE is the record of work performed and difficulties undergone which were down President Harding's physical condition so that what was believed at first to be but mild case of ptomaine poisoning developed into a serious illness.

Left Washington June 20, traveled 39 days.

Covered by train, steamship and automobile, approximately 7500 miles.

Delivered 60 speeches, of which 13 were set addresses at night before large crowds and represented laborious preparation before hand.

Exposed himself to all sorts of weather and other arduous conditions to address eager crowds from rear platform of his special train. Members of the presidential party declared that the delivery of these speeches was almost as wearing as the preparation and delivery of the set addresses.

Friendship Is Forgotten.

Even the steady stream of telegrams expressing solicitude and hope for the executive's speedy recovery was temporarily shut off after a day in which the messages piled high on a desk in the Secretary's office. These telegrams had been opened and read as soon as received and although none was made public, it was said they came from every corner of the world.

"Personally, and on behalf of the people of Maine, I want you to know that, during these anxious hours we are all thinking of you and the President and earnestly hope that he speedily will be restored to health so that he may continue his fearless and splendid leadership of this nation."

Baptist clergymen, in particular, have announced that special prayer services will be held tomorrow night and Sunday. No order for universal prayer throughout the Catholic churches of this archdiocese has yet been sent out, but if the President's condition does not improve within a day or two Bishop Corrigan will direct that special masses be said in each parish.

THIS MONTH HOTTER THAN THE JULY AVERAGE IN ST. LOUIS

DR. JOHNS APPOINTED HEAD OF FEEBLE-MINDED SCHOOL
Dr. Shumaker Promoted to Superintendent in His Place at City Sanitarium.

Appointment of Dr. George A. Johns has been superintendent of the City Sanitarium for 21 years to be the superintendent of the St. Louis Training School for the Feeble-Minded, on Bellefontaine road, north of the city, was announced today, effective immediately.
The change is in the nature of a promotion.

City officials feel that there will be a broader field for cure in the new institution than in the sanitarium, where many cases are hopeless. Dr. Johns recently toured Eastern institutions. He has been in the city service since 1905 and has had as many as 1600 patients under his care.

ONE OF MEN KILLED IN RAID ALLEGED
AID OF SWINDLER

James, or Zigmund Wojcik, Said to Have Been Sponsor for Man Who Worked "Money Doubling" Game.

James, or Zigmund Wojcik, who was killed by city detectives in his home, 3741 Flinnery avenue, Sunday night, was declared today to have been the friend and sponsor of the swindler who got $1500 from a South Side saloon keeper by a "money doubling" game and who robbed a Polish family in Desloge, St. Francois County, of $4000. Details of the swindle and the robbery were published yesterday.

St. Francois County authorities also believe that Wojcik himself was the man who was accused of a $11,000 swindle in that county a few years ago, and who broke jail after his arrest, and later, when caught, could not be prosecuted because the witnesses had disappeared. They were Poles, and were driven out in a riot which was directed against the foreign-born.

Joseph Kukocienski of 1529 South Third street, the saloon keeper who was swindled out of $3500 last month, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that Wojcik was the man who first took the swindler to his place. The man's name, as he understood it, was Burkowski. Kukocienski said he asked Wojcik whether it was "all right" to serve him whatever he might ask, and that Wojcik replied, "He's all right—I know him. Give him anything he wants." The man later interested Kukocienski in his supposed "money doubling" machine, with the result which has been told.

The robbery at Desloge occurred later, and a county officer said today that Wojcik, who was known there was with the swindler when he appeared at the Bremer home, was questioned about him there. The man asked Mrs. Bremer to take care of his money, and in this way learned the hiding place of the family savings, which he stole at the first opportunity. His description and the St. Louis address he gave, on Hammert place, indicated that he was the "money doubler."

Inquest to Be Tuesday.

The Coroner's inquest into the death of Wojcik and of his brother-in-law, Walter Borsoki or Brzowski, who was killed at the same time, was postponed today until next Tuesday. The Coroner announced that a "special jury of representative business men" would be convened in the case, in order to make the most thorough inquiry possible.

The postponement of the inquest was because two of the detectives, John J. McNiff and John P. Kelly, who were wounded, are in the city hospital.

Relatives of the two men who were killed have engaged John Neu as attorney to represent them at the inquest and in any later civil or criminal proceedings. Neu said he would insist that the Circuit Attorney take up the case, and would appear to the Attorney-General if necessary.

Wojcik married a sister of Borsoki three months ago. Borsoki ran the basement saloon at the Flinnery Avenue house, and the Wojciks lived on the first floor. The entire house, the police say, was used for the manufacture, storage and private sale of liquor, the basement "soft drink" place being only a means of entrance to the upper floors.

The Borsoki and Brzowski family home is at 3538A Magnolia avenue. The funeral of the two men will be held at 8:30 a. m. Thursday at St. Margaret's Catholic Church.

Report Trials of Disturbance.

The official police report on the case, written by Lieut. William Walton, who headed the party of detectives who arrested the swindler because a disturbance had been created, which they heard as they were driving past in a police automobile. After entering, they met with resistance, and Wojcik shot McNiff and Kelly, but the detectives say one of Wojcik's shots must have hit him, and that they did not fire in the direction of Borsoki.

Chief of Police O'Brien said yesterday he had read Walton's report that he believed the detectives were justified in entering the place, because of the disturbance.

It appeared from the statements of the detectives that they had the place under suspicion as a bootlegging establishment. On the theory that the entrance was really for that reason, the Coroner's office yesterday asked the Circuit Attorney for an opinion as to whether the entrance without a search warrant was justified. Deputy Coroner Dever was the one who particularly sought this information.

Siderer's Opinion on Entry Right.

Circuit Attorney Siderer said today that he had replied, but neither he nor the Coroner would say just what his reply had been. Siderer has in the past expressed the belief that the police have the right to enter any place where a disturbance is being created.

In this connection it has been suggested that the new State law, which makes the illicit manufacture of liquor a felony, would make it possible for the police to enter without a warrant in any place where they suspect that this felony is being committed. Some lawyers doubt whether a mere suspicion would suffice in such a case, and hold that the strengthening of the State hem-line law has made no change in the requirement for search warrants.

In the house, the detectives found quantities of beer, whisky and wine, with many bottles, caps and a capping machine. Borsoki's two sisters, Mrs. Wojcik and Cecilia Borsoki said yesterday that the beer was made by Peter Wojcik, brother of the man who was killed. The police say they learned that customers were taken upstairs from the basement and were served with liquor in the dwelling. A number of persons were drinking on the first floor when the detectives entered.

Chief of Detectives Hoagland was informed today that a Federal search warrant for the Flinnery avenue house was sold in the house at 25 cents a requirement for search warrants.

BROOKHART PREDICTS

"BLOCS" WILL UNITE

Senator Says Farmer, Laborer, Soldier and Mother Can Join and Have Majority.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 31.—

Inequalities of our economic system have forced the different groups like the farmers, laborers, soldiers' and mothers' blocs to consider their own interests collectively, and these groups now are figuring their own problems as the business man figures his business, Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa said in an address here Sunday at the annual picnic of the Trades and Labor Assembly.

These groups have reached the conclusion that their interests are identical, Senator Brookhart said. They now assert that they have been "kept apart and at enmity by the great combinations of wealth." They all believe in the spirit and the practice of co-operation and under this banner they are united today, he said.

"The question of unrest is the most pressing in State, national and international fields," said Senator Brookhart. "It is said, more often than anything else, that we are in a great state of unrest. Civilization has reached a turning point. It is a universal prediction that great changes are impending."

"While this is true in general terms, there are few who point out any specific cause or suggest any concrete remedy. As for myself, I think there is no advantage in criticizing an old system or method unless a better one is suggested."

"I have attempted to reason out the causes of this unrest and to suggest remedies that would dispel it. The old idea of the political parties that they represent all the people is fiction and disillusion and settles nothing. This unrest is caused by the inequalities of our economic system. These inequalities have forced the different groups like the farm bloc, labor bloc, the soldiers' bloc and the mothers' bloc to consider their own interests collectively and each from its own standpoint."

Blocs Are Standing Together.

"These groups now are figuring their own problems as the business man figures his business. They have learned a few basic facts. Out of 100,000 workers, 80 cents of the dollar goes for the products of the farm, the farmer gets 27 cents. Out of the dollar which the farmer pays for the product of labor, based upon the Department of Commerce bulletin of 1919, the laboring man gets less than 20 cents."

"The cost of distributing, the profits and wastes of the middleman is 63 cents one way and 80 cents the other. The laboring man therefore has ceased to denounce the farmer as a profiteer and is no longer willing to fight him to the death. The middleman he now is getting along with. On the other hand the farmer is no longer willing to fight the laboring man in the vain attempt to reduce the 20 cents he is now getting. Each has definitely concluded that the middleman, with his profits, waste and extravagance, is the common economic and political enemy of both. Upon this basis, these great blocs have united together for economic and political action."

"I have just been in the Eastern States and I want to bring you the news that this condition is not local to the West. It is exactly the same in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio. These great blocs have not joined for racial or destructive purposes. They have united upon a common remedy. It is not a wild and untried theory. It is the oldest, soundest, most enterprising and most successful business principle that has ever been promulgated in this world. It is as aggressive as the spirit of the crusader, and it is as gentle as the Sermon on the Mount. It is known as economic co-operation and was invented by 22 flannel weavers, the equitable pioneers of Rochdale."

Accuses "Trust System."

"The prophets of the combination and trust system in business and the spoils system in politics, denounce this allegiance of the farmers and laboring people as unholy, ill advised and vicious. They fail to point out where the farmers would go for help when they break their alliance with labor. And they fail to point out where labor would go when it breaks its alliance with the farmers."

"They know that neither constitutes a majority. If these two great elements of the common people of our country, together with their soldier members and mother members, can unite upon a common program every dictate of common sense demands that they shall do so."

"They all believe in the spirit, the practice and the progress of co-operation and under this banner they are united today. This is the spirit of Lincoln and of Jefferson rolled into one."

Senator Brookhart, in an interview yesterday took issue with E. T. Meridith, former Secretary of Agriculture on the agricultural situation, by maintaining that the grain farmer is receiving less today for his crop than any time in history, considering the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar.

He said he agreed with Senator La Follette who asserted in an interview Friday that price fixing is not the remedy for the troubles on the farm. Senator Brookhart took the position that the creation of a Government marketing agency does not mean fixing of prices.

Meridith, in a statement given to the Associated Press Saturday, discounted the slump in prices of wheat. He said this was offset by the higher price for oats and other grains.

VACCINATION FOR PERSONS FROM SOUTH

Railroad Car With Six Physicians to Be Ready in Union Station Tomorrow.

A passenger coach from which some of the seats have been removed and the space they occupied fitted up as an emergency dispensary, will be placed upon Track 32 at Union Station tomorrow and six physicians from the Health Department will begin to examine and vaccinate new arrivals from the South. All such persons, white or negro, coming with the intention of remaining in St. Louis, will be examined.

There is no compulsory vaccination law in Missouri. Persons examined who are not vaccinated will be told of the beneficial necessity for vaccination, if they persist in refusal to submit to that preventive course, they will be permitted to go their way. As is known, present measures are the result of the discovery of 15 cases of smallpox in the city, traceable, it was felt, to negroes who have been coming to the city in large numbers recently. A large number of Mexicans also have been coming in.

Handbills are being circulated calling attention to a "mass meeting" of negroes tonight in the office of the Argus, the newspaper devoted to the interests of negroes, 2811 Market street. Opposition to the city course among the negroes is based upon unwillingness to be vaccinated and upon the assertion that there is discrimination and harsh treatment of negroes in enforcing the Health Department's order. Assistant Health Commissioner Woodruff declares that there has been no harsh treatment of negroes.

DAVIS RESENTS CRITICISM OF CONDITIONS AT ELLIS ISL.

Says in London He May Make a Speech on Immigration
White Thesis

LONDON, July 31.—Secretary of Labor Davis is very much incensed about British criticisms of conditions on Ellis Island. In an interview here the Secretary, who has just arrived from the Continent, said:

"Conditions on Ellis Island are much better than steerage accommodations on any ship afloat. Furthermore, the United States when it refuses permission to persons to enter America is under no obligation to allow them to land at all, but could, if desired, require them to remain aboard ship until returned to where they came from."

He expressed considerable annoyance at criticisms of the working of the immigration law and said that many critics here do not want to know the facts. Indeed, he said, he had found it impossible to obtain publication of the facts in this country.

"I am going to talk to a number of people, including officials and labor leaders, about Ellis Island," he went on. "I am making a speech while in London, in which I may possibly deal with the subject."

Before returning to America Davis will visit his native town of Tredegar in Wales. Meanwhile he is doing here as he did on the Continent, investigating immigration conditions. His study has convinced him more than ever that the United States needs a selective immigration law, but he refused to discuss the bill he is drafting.

DAELMAN CULVERT CONTRACT
LET ON BID OF $130,635.70

KINSEY ACTS ON DES PERES PROJECT
IN HOPE OF FAVORABLE COURT DECISION.

A contract for the construction of the River Des Peres culvert, which is part of the city plan for the elimination of the Delmar grade crossing of the Wabash Railroad by depression of tracks was let today by the Board of Public Service. The successful bid was $130,635.70 by the Fruin-Colmen Construction Co.

President Kinsey stated that the motion of the Wabash in Cole County Circuit Court for a restraining order to stop the work was argued before Judge Westhues yesterday and that, notwithstanding his knowledge that the Public Service Commission order is for the city to start work on Aug. 1, the Judge announced that he would postpone the hearing until Sept. 1. The Judge added, Kinsey said, that he failed to see how the culvert construction affected the railroad as it was exclusively on city property. Kinsey took this to forecast a decision favorable to the city.

SOCIALISTS ARE EXCLUDED
FARMER-LABOR AND RAILROAD BROTHERHOODS CONFERENCE TAKES ACTION.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 31.—The railroad brotherhoods and the Farmer-Labor party yesterday organized a New York State conference for progressive political action, adopted plans for State and Federal platforms, virtually agreed to sever all relations with the Socialist party and proposed several appeals to President Harding and Gov. Smith. Thomas E. Ryan of Albany is permanent chairman of the organization.

It was decided to make admission to the conference available only to accredited labor unions, their auxiliaries and the Farmer-Labor party. Holding that the Socialist party, feeling its own ineffectiveness, attempted to gain control of the conference it virtually agreed that no Socialist delegates would be admitted in the future.

FOOTPRINT AND HOLE IN SOCK
CAUSE ALTON NEGRO'S ARREST

Police Unmoved by Plea That He Should Not Be Held on Such Evidence.

An Alton negro, who is under arrest, is out of luck. In the first place he has a hole in his sock which permits his great toe to protrude. In the second place the negro who broke into the home of Roy M. Carters, at 709 Georgia Street, Alton, Sunday morning, had a hole in his sock which permitted his great toe to protrude, as evidenced by the track he left in the Carters' flower bed. Additional circumstantial evidence is the fact that his foot is a pretty good fit for the print in the flower bed.

The negro who entered the Carters' home was discovered at 8:45 a. m. crawling into the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Carters. When the lights were flashed on, he dived through a window and made tracks through a flower bed which destroyed the hole in his sock and betrayed the hole in his sock which was frightening big toe.

As to the hole in his sock, the negro under arrest says he is not the only one who wears his sock that way, and as for his foot fitting the track, that is a coincidence for which he should not be held to account.

SEVEN PERSONS ARRESTED
BY POLICE IN DRY RAIDS

Proprietors of Three Saloons, a Bar-tender and a Woman Who Conducts a Fruit Store Taken.

Proprietors of three saloons and a bartender were arrested by Police Capt. Christopher and eight officers of the Magnolia Avenue District in a series of raids, conducted under search warrants between noon and 12:40 p. m. yesterday. Those arrested were Philip Kimmel and his bartender, Arthur Stoll, when a pint bottle of liquor and a bottle of unlabeled beverage were found in Kimmel's saloon at 3101 Morganford road; Charles Grupp, proprietor of a saloon at 3136 Morganford road, above which were found 13 cases of "home brew" and a quantity of liquor; and Nick Dolls, in whose saloon at 4100 Juniper street was found a small quantity of liquor.

Detectors of the Deer Street District arrested Mrs. Rose Giannino, who conducts a fruit store at 3002 North Newstead avenue, when, they reported, they saw her secrete a half-pint bottle of whisky in a basket as they happened to step into the store by the rear door. Examination of the basket disclosed four more bottles they reported.

100 STOLEN AUTOS RECOVERED
SO FAR IN CENTRAL MISSOURI

Two Last Found Owned in St. Louis—Tipton Dealer Said to Admit Handling Them.

One hundred stolen automobiles, 91 of which have been identified, have been recovered through the investigations in Central Missouri into automobile thefts in St. Louis and elsewhere. The latest recoveries were of a Dodge sedan belonging to J. F. Scharf of St. Louis, and a Ford coupe belonging to Beulah Moon of St. Louis.

They were found after Leonard Thomas, a Dodge dealer at Tipton, Mo., is said to have admitted to Detectives Ising, Norrie and Sullivan of St. Louis that he had handled six machines. Of the other four, a Dodge was driven by Thomas last week to Osawatomie, Kan., where he left it, and three Fords have been found near Tipton.

SALESMAN ENDS HIS LIFE

S. E. Ray, 45 years old, ended his life by taking poison in his rooming house, 5567 Waterman avenue, yesterday, a short time after he had resigned as a salesman for the Meyer Bros. Drug Co. He left a note saying he was "tired of living" and asking that his wife be notified at Franklin, Ky.

It was said at the drug company that Ray, a recent employee, started out last week in an automobile to sell drugs between here and Mississippi, but became discouraged and returned to resign.

MAN, 52, WEDS GIRL 14 YEARS OLD

Hugh McGowan, 52 years old, and his bride, Lucy, the 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Margaret Cummings, returned to Jerseyville, Ill., from Arkansas yesterday and announced they had been married there July 14. Mrs. Cummings accompanied them and gave her consent to the marriage, which was performed at Pigott, Ark., by the Rev. Mr. Jaynes, a Baptist minister. Illinois laws forbid marriage of children under 16. McGowan's visits to the Cummings home had been frequent. Lucy is the daughter of Mrs. Cummings' first husband, John Cummings. After a second marriage and divorce she took the name Cummings again.

COMMISSION CHARGES ON LIVESTOCK REDUCED

New Schedule to Central States
Markets Expected to Save $750,000.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 31.—Schedules of livestock commission rates at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha and St. Paul, which have been under consideration by arbiters of the packers and stock yards administration of the United States Department of Agriculture, will be materially reduced as a result of the report and awards made public today. By the new rates it is estimated that producers and shippers will save three-quarters of a million dollars a year in commissions.

The rates, to be put into effect as promptly as circumstances will permit, are the result of careful study of the conditions of individual markets and consideration of auditors' reports of the individual commission firms, together with information furnished by the parties concerned.

The new rates of selling cattle at St. Paul, Omaha and Kansas City, as established by this decision, are minimum of $15 for 20 head or less and a maximum of $19 for a car load, at the rate of 45 cents per head to St. Paul and Kansas City and 75 cents for Omaha. The Chicago minimum charge for 20 head or less will be $17, with a maximum of $21 at the rate of 75 cents a head. The cuts represented in these rates for Kansas City, Omaha and St. Paul amount to from $1 to $2 a car and from 10 to 15 cents a head. The new calf rates of the packers on single-deck cars for single-deck cars are a minimum of $15 and a maximum of $20 with a per-head rate of 30 cents, double-deck cars a minimum of $21 and a maximum of $26.

Chicago Rates Cut $1 to $4.

At Chicago the cuts reported are from cattle $1 to $3 a car and 15 cents a head; for calves, single-deck will be a minimum of $17 and a maximum of $22; double-decks, $23 to $28; the per-head charge being 30 cents. This is a reduction ranging from $1 to $4 a car and 5 to 10 cents a head.

The new rates on hogs at the first three markets are a minimum of $12 for 50 head or less, and 50 cents per head up to a maximum of $22 on double-deck carloads. At Chicago the limits on singles are $13 and $15, and on doubles $18 and $23. The reductions range from $1 to $4 a car and from 10 to 15 cents a head on hogs.

The new sheep rates at Kansas City and St. Paul, which are the same as the present rates at Omaha and Chicago, which means a reduction of $1 on single decks, and an increase of $2 on double decks at Kansas City and a reduction at St. Paul, ranging up to $3 a car.

Mixed stock rates have been revised in accord with the other changes, with car reductions up to $4.

All rates listed above are for single ownership or for shipments handled by several persons, but sold as single ownership. This change in respect to co-operative shipments handled as single ownership lots affords a reduction of as much as $8 a carload at certain markets, and at the others the reduction is equal to the carlot reductions mentioned previously. Where cars owned by several persons must be handled according to ownership, the basic schedule will be $1 higher than for single ownership, but no one owner shall pay more than the commission would be on a single ownership carload.

Charge for Forwarding.

At all markets when it is necessary or a request has been made to have a single ownership carload graded into market grades and classes or a car owned by more than one person sorted for ownership, marks or brands, a charge of 15 cents shall be made for each draft over three drafts a deck, with a maximum of $2 for single ownership cars, and $3 for plural ownership for this service. When prorating is done, a charge of 25 cents for each owner shall be made, with a minimum charge of $1 and a maximum of $2.00. This means a cut of $1 on the minimum at St. Paul and Chicago and $1 on the maximum at Chicago. The other markets considered here do not have a separate prorating charge, but the prorating schedule applies to all of them.

The amounts that selling agencies can collect for personal service have been limited by these new schedules, and charges can be made only to the extent that the service has been utilized by shippers. Revised schedules contemplate basic charges for those shipments requiring service in addition to the standard service. This makes it possible for shippers to take advantage of the basic charge when the nature of the shipment makes extra service unnecessary.

COYLE JOINS MOVE FOR USE OF DOCK AT RUTGER STREET

Says Industrial Traffic Managers' Conference Wants Part in Investigation of Complaints.

ADDRESSES REQUEST TO COL. ASHBURN

Takes Exception to Argument That Trestle Is Weak and That Dock Is Bottled by Terminal.

The request of South St. Louis shippers that the Rutger street river dock, idle since its completion more than a year ago, be used by the Government river service, has been supplemented by the Industrial Traffic Managers' Conference of the Chamber of Commerce through P. W. Coyle, Traffic Commissioner.

Coyle has dispatched a letter to Col. T. Q. Ashburn, Chief of Inland and Coastwise Waterways of the War Department, asking that the dock be opened and requesting that, if Col. Ashburn undertakes an investigation to determine the fact of certain complaints of the physical inadequacy of the dock, the Industrial Traffic Managers' Conference may be permitted to name a committee to participate.

Quotes Correspondence.

In his letter, Coyle quotes correspondence with Col. T. Q. Brent, manager of the river service, during March, 1922, in which Brent replied to an inquiry as to when the dock would be opened: "The question of opening the dock has been left entirely to Mr. Higgins, who will decide when business conditions warrant us in going to the expense of opening up this new facility." Coyle notes that Brent at that time made no note of objection to the dock on account of physical imperfections.

"As I view it," Coyle comments, "this situation is somewhat comparable to that of the Terminal, connecting terminal and freight houses facilities in a community and then failing to operate in connection with such facilities. I have never had any direct experience with water transportation, but I have had considerable with rail service, and I was never able to determine what could be done at any particular station until it was open to the public, and I do not see how that fact can be determined with respect to a dock until it is open to the public."

Present at Conferences.

Coyle notes that he was present at the conferences between Gen. W. D. Connor of the War Department and city officials at which it was decided to build the dock as a facility to encourage use of the barge line by St. Louis shippers.

He adds that the present complaint on the weakness of the trestle is trivial, as the dock was designed to handle package freight and the auxiliary freight was for loading and unloading open-top cars, a facility which in light of the present barge operation is a minor feature.

As for the dock being bottled by the Terminal Railroad, Coyle declares that it was carefully seen to that the connection of the dock was with city-owned tracks so that the Terminal could not bottle the dock.

As has been told, the dock was built by the Government River Service at a cost of $210,000. It stands on land leased from the city, which is valued at $100,000.

SAYS CHORUS BEAUTY WOULD OUTSHINE HELEN OF TROY

Cosmetic Society Head Asserts American Women Surpass Those of Every Other Age.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Helen of Troy was all right in her day, but she would have to take a back seat in competition with American women of the present, according to experts at the convention of the American Cosmetic Society.

"How do you suppose Helen of Troy would stack up with a Folies Beauty?" asked Dr. Nellie B. Cooper of Baton Rouge, president of the society.

"We'd like to see a snapshot of her and another of Cleopatra, stripped of the glamour of antiquity. Any modern chorus beauty would outshine them in charm, symmetry and personality."

"The American woman has learned to take care of herself. In grooming, in natural beauty and in attire she surpasses the women of every other age."

Experts say a new type of feminine beauty has come into vogue. The day of the golden blonde, the fair-haired beauty and vivacious brunettes, such as Helen of Troy, held the scepter for a time is over. The reigning beauty is an auburn blonde. The pale luster of her hair cannot be produced by peroxide and her skin has the comely perfection of a magnolia petal. Her eyes are gray or a gray-blue.

The vogue of the "natural" girl, with her sunburned arms and tanned face, is also said to be waning. Bobbed hair will remain in style. The permanent wave is increasingly popular because of its value to a plain-faced woman.

Mussolini Declares Fascisti in United States Are Helping In Fight Against Communism

Italian Premier Says, However He Has Nothing to Do With American Organization Work.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1923.)

ROME, July 31.—Premier Mussolini today discussed with extraordinary frankness the question of whether the Fascisti organizations in America should be encouraged or discouraged.

In an interview with this correspondent, the Italian Premier said emphatically that, rather than infuse the opposition of public opinion in America, he would use his influence to have abolished those Fascisti organizations which have sprung up among Italian residents in the United States. But he was not sure it would be a good thing to do so, for he thinks some verile force should be at work constantly among Italian emigrants to prevent their falling victims to the doctrines of Communism. The latter, he believes, has aggressive missionaries in America.

Mussolini occupies the dual position of Premier of the Italian Government and actual head of the Fascisti party, which has a grand council somewhat like the Republican and Democratic national committees in the United States. It consists of about 25 members, including the Cabinet members.

Hopes U. S. People Understand.

"The Fascist grand council," said Mussolini, "has decided that has just been meeting to consider whether the Fascisti organization in America should be continued. The Italian Government believes that if any political taint or suspicion is attached to these bodies they should be abolished. But I hope the American people will understand that there is no connection between these organizations and the Italian Government, for in America the Italian Government is represented only by her Ambassador, Prince Ciano. In fact, the Ambassador, who now is here, attended our meetings and made a speech in opposition to the continuance of the Fascisti societies in the United States.

The question is whether they can assume an entirely local status, aiming only to combat the economic theories of communists who work among the Italians in America. This is as important to the welfare of America as it is to the rest of the world."

At this point the writer inquired whether the fascisti organizations would owe allegiance to any institution in Italy and the Premier said positively they had arisen in America without any connection with the Italian Government and were intended purely as a manifestation of sympathy with the economic doctrines being practiced in Italy.

"I believe firmly," says Mr. Ambassador, "that the Italians in America should remain obedient to the laws of the United States and that they should be the best behaved citizens in America. I am pleased to note that many Americans are beginning to understand just what fascism is and are expressing sympathy therewith."

Please With Child's Remarks.

The most concrete expression of approval of fascism came recently from the American Ambassador, Richard Washburn Child, and drew from Mussolini at the time the comment which is significant and important in connection with the complimentary references to the Mussolini Government by President Harding in his St. Louis speech. Replying to the American Ambassador's full some praise of fascism, Mussolini said:

"As a fascista, your excellency's words have interested me because they reveal an exact understanding of the phenomena of our movement and thus constitute a sympathetic and powerful vindication of this fact is so much more remarkable because the fascist movements are liberalized in some particulars—but to the war, which took away many of its young men; to its inaccessibility, to the prevalent mistaken notions about its climate, to the decline of the pioneering spirit and to other causes, social and economic, over which the Government has no control.

More People Found to Be Greatest Need of Territory Rich in Mines, Fisheries and Forests

ON TOUR WITH THE PRESIDENT, Seward, Alaska, July 19 (by mail).—We have reached the end of the trail, turned around and started back home. Scenically, it has been a great trip. Its leading features are easily told in headlines:

President Sets Foot on Alaskan Soil.

President Visits Glacier.

President Joins Another Lodge.

President Runs Engine.

President Drives Golden Spike.

What the trip may be expected to do toward the solution of Alaskan problems is not so easily told. Out of it will come, probably, some recommendation looking to administrative improvement, but there will be—there can be—no program bringing back the golden boom days of the territory. Alaska will grow in population and commerce, slowly and by natural processes, and not by forced feeding.

The territory has magnificent scenery that will attract tourists in increasing numbers. It has untold resources in mines, fisheries and forests. The Indians are the greatest problem.

Anticonservatism, who want the territory thrown open to exploitation, make much of the fact that the population of Alaska, which is reckoned at about 60,000, including 30,000 whites, declined in the period from 1910 to 1920. Analysis of the census figures shows that the population loss consisted largely of the floating element, not of persons who had come to make their homes in the territory. The number of families, the number of dwellings and the number of children increased.

In so far as the President's trip may cause a better understanding of the territory, the result to Alaska will be clear gain.

Ketchikan, with a population estimated at between 4000 and 5000, claims to have outstripped Juneau, the capital, and to be the first city of Alaska.

Hoover Cordially Received.

All Ketchikan is out to see the President and hear him speak. He introduces the cabinet members with him and each speaks briefly. Hoover gets an especially cordial reception.

Budget Director Forecasts Decrease of $151,000,000 in Federal Receipts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—A net

reduction in Government receipts of $151,894,397 during the next fiscal year was predicted today by Herbert

M. Lord, director of the budget, in his annual report to President Harding on the operation of the Federal budget in its second year. Estimates of expenditures have not been completed.

The income for the year is estimated in the report at $3,456,595,

086, compared with an estimated collection of $3,638,489,483 in the present fiscal year, which will end

July 30, 1924.

Customs revenues, estimated at $100,000,000 this year, are expected to drop to $475,000,000 next year, while a loss of $50,000,000 is expected in income and profits taxes. Microscopic internal revenue is expected to maintain its present annual level of $850,750,000.

Revenues from the various departments of the Government, listed as miscellaneous receipts, were expected to be $2,413,845,056, and capital and income and special operations, $72,

700,000. Under the latter item are included railroad administration,

$23,000,000, repayment of loans to foreign Governments, $23,625,000;

state farm loans and bonds and liquidation of capital stock of Federal Land Banks, $26,125,000.

Analyzing the factors which led to an actual surplus of $309,657,460 on June 30, 1922, in place of the deficit of $82,432,731 forecast when the year began, the report said:

"This improvement in the Government's financial condition is accounted for by increases in receipts

over estimates. $768,101,425,82, and net decreases in estimated expenditures.

$362,989,275,68, marking a total difference as between the estimates of June 30, 1922, and actual receipts June 30, 1923, of $1,132,089,

691."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, always tolerate injustice of any kind, always fight determinedly for all parties, never bow down to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but no request will be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Thomas C. Harbaugh.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ with pleasure the article on poor Tom Harbaugh in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch. The writer did not indulge in that stupid English "Dime Dreadful," which was strung out ad libitum by correspondents of other newspapers, who, like 99 persons in 100 who use the expression, have never had an old-time Dime Novel in their hands, have never seen one, but are under the impression that they display smarts by repeating the English about phrase.

Tom Harbaugh did write a good many Dime Novels, and they were not one whit more trashy than are hundreds of the novels of today that circulate by the thousands of copies.

Captain Mayne Reid also wrote Dime Novels (five of them), and so did William Gilmore Simms, Honorable John Neal, Augustus Derleth, and A. J. Stephen. Collected, A. J. H. Duggan, Miss M. E. Bradson, Edward S. Ellis and many others with established reputations in the literary world.

Articles on Tom Harbaugh prior to the one in the Post-Dispatch were densely ignorant. "Beagle's Dime Weekly" and "Beagle's Half-Dime Weekly" never existed. "Library" is meant for "Saturday Night Journal" and for "Saturday Night" two entirely different periodicals. Harbaugh was not 85 years of age; he was born on Jan. 12, 1849, and not in Ohio, but at Middletown, Md. But why confuse?

Lincoln, Chase, Seward, Zach Chandler, Andy Johnson read dime novels. Chief Justice Field still read them when he was 85 years of age. Senator Blair carried a supply of them in his valise while traveling. Judge N. William Bussey, Grand Head Warden Becker read them and many others?

Harbaugh wrote a number of serious books of poetry and history. In 1884 he sent me a copy of his "Maple Leaves," which I do not hesitate to say contains more genuine poetry than three-fourths of the so-called books of poetry of today. Parts of his "Decoration Day" ode are being constantly quoted on Decoration Day. He wrote the ballad, "Rag"—just as thousands of other writers have done before him. Times change, he has outlived his generation of readers. The present generation wants something different—I don't think "better." Altogether, I do not believe that Tom Harbaugh's best work has been estimated justly.

Cold Water for the Library.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE St. Louis Public Library is considered one of the most modern structures of our city, yet it seems as though the builders have neglected a very essential thing, without which the building is still incomplete, or rather defective and unfinished. It would have been magnanimous had they not overlooked what this edifice were in need of, but let us condone them for no other reason but for that perhaps of not having sufficient funds on hand, handicapped those founders from installing modern devices which are now necessary, namely, cold drinking water. It would have been pleasing if we had had in our library a plain drink of cold water which would refresh not only the physical but also the mental frame.

There is no institution in this or in any other city, be it small or large, where this meager privilege was even denied to the public during the period of the hot summer days. The charming young women who so faithfully work in our library should, for the sake of humanity, be provided with a cool drink of water, to which, I think, they are rightfully entitled.

PHILIP SILVERSTEIN.

Muzzle Them.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HEARTILY approve of your editorial appearing in the evening edition of July 21st, entitled "Muzzle the Dogs." Every year there are a great many persons bitten by dogs in the city, who never make a report of it. Over two years ago I was bitten by an unmuzzled dog, that made its appearance in my yard from time to time. A year later my boy was also bitten by a little poodle dog which the owners claimed would not bite anyone.

Personally I have nothing against dumb animals of any kind, but I am constantly afraid that my boy will again be bitten by some stray dog, as there is a large number of them in my community, running at large, unmuzzled. It seems to me that there are more laws enacted in our city and State than we are able to enforce. I for one, would be in favor of making a vigorous fight to have all dogs muzzled, as required by the law. I believe the ordinance states that dogs are to be muzzled or shot. I join with you in your desire to see the city authorities enforce the law.

RICHARD Q. VOOS.

THE PRESIDENT'S ILLNESS.

The first news this morning, including the regular morning bulletin, from the bedside of President Harding was encouraging. It is evident, however, that he is seriously ill and further developments will be awaited with profound anxiety and fervent wishes for his recovery.

THE FINNEY AVENUE RAID.

The initial illness of the President was ascribed to ptomaine poisoning, but there seems no doubt that it was aggravated by the exertions of travel.

The collapse of President Wilson on his across-the-continent speaking tour in defense of the League of Nations, followed by the breakdown of President Harding, near the close of his transcontinental trip, directs serious attention to the question of the advisability of long journeys by the occupant of the White House. With the kindest intentions the public is merciless towards a traveling President. Everyone wants to see and greet him. He is showered with dinners and other hospital entertainment. He is called upon to make numerous speeches and to meet hosts of people. He is subjected to the strain of continuous travel in trains and automobiles. Naturally, the danger of overstrain, particularly when one is not accustomed to such a task and is not in training for it, is great.

Occupants of houses may be, as the police say the occupants of this house were, guilty of violating the law, but there is no assurance of this, and when men in plain clothes invade a house without warrant in this day of violence and crime, resistance is invited. Who in the house were guilty?

The police cannot be too vigorous in proceeding against criminals; on the other hand, they cannot be too careful with regard to homes and private houses. They should respect the rights of the people and keep within the law. If they do not, who will? Not only the responsibility in this case, but the requirements of the law, should be clearly established.

AN INTERRACIAL COMMISSION.

With negroes pouring into St. Louis from the South at the rate of several hundred a week, lured by the prospect of good wages, the proposed interracial commission appears to be needed. Whatever the cause, it is a condition that must be met. To avoid meeting it will only result in increasing the difficulties that must arise from the presence of a multitude of people for whom no provision has been made in the way of housing, sanitation and other problems.

Those parts of the city already inhabited by negroes are fairly well filled, and in some places even congested. And there is a very strong feeling against permitting the colored population to spread into districts now peopled with whites. What must be done with these thousands coming from the South? If they can find no room except in the existing negro districts, we shall have unsanitary crowding, resulting in danger to the general health. To do nothing to meet the problem is to invite dangerous friction between the races, which wise action may prevent.

A commission such as has been suggested should be made up of men of standing and ability from both races. It should be strictly nonpolitical and truly representative. Anyone known to have been active in encouraging race hatred should be barred. The members should also be practical men, not sentimentalists.

In other cities, notably Philadelphia, such commissions have done useful work. The commission should make a thorough investigation of residence, industrial, sanitary and other conditions, with a view to drawing up a comprehensive plan that would be just to both races, prevent friction and give the incoming negro settlers such opportunity as may be available.

Incidentally, however, it is well to inform our negro citizens that the Northern cities are not paved with gold nor flowing with milk and honey. If they can do anything to prevent a disastrous influx of their workers and families into cities where there is no room for them, they should do so. We cannot encourage the exodus of the entire Southern negro population. There is no place for more than a reasonable number of them in St. Louis or elsewhere in the North. Too many would be sure to cause trouble and even suffering. A word to the wise is sufficient.

THIS QUIVERING EARTH.

Prof. W. de Sitter of the University of Leyden tells us that the earth does not travel as a rigid body, but quivers as it rotates as if it were a ball of stiff jelly. This bears out the theory of these scientists who believe that the interior of the earth is molten, and only kept in place by the more or less solid crust, which is supposed to be about 30 miles thick. Earthquakes, on this theory, come when old Mother Earth quivers a bit too violently. The crust gives way a little at such times, if spots where it is a trifle thin.

But does the rotation cause the quivering, or is there some more occult explanation? We all know there's a man in the moon. Why not a woman in the earth? Cartoonists always represent this old globe as a person with a face. You can see the face of the Man in the Moon. Perhaps, if there are little people like us on the moon, as well as The Man, they may see a face in the Earth as we see this way. Conceding this, we may fancy that the real reason of the quivering noted by the German professor is that Old Mother Earth is laughing. Laughing at what? Why, the jazzy music of the spheres, of course. Simple enough, isn't it?

THE GRADE-CROSSING MASSACRE.

Twenty-four persons riding in automobiles were killed Sunday by trains in grade-crossing collisions. Simple caution is most, if not all, cases would have prevented the writing of this gory record. The drivers of one of the cars in which nine were slain apparently attempted to beat the locomotive over the crossing.

The Pennsylvania railroad, on which this catastrophe occurred, said in a report last April that "the most effective remedy for preventing automobile accidents of all kinds is not the elimination of highway crossings and improving conditions generally on the highways, important as this may be, but the elimination of reckless drivers who make up a small percentage of the total, and who are responsible for nearly all the accidents." It cites that on its system alone last year seven persons were killed and 17 injured in attempts of drivers to cross tracks ahead of trains.

It may be that crossing accidents would not happen but for reckless drivers, and some progress is being made in this direction.

GHOSTS WHAT AINT.

If you read Stefansson's experiences in the Far North and Robert Louis Stevenson and O'Brien on the South Sea Islands, you'll learn that the religions of the native are systems of taboo, or tabu, or tapu—according to the way they look at it. They are not "thou shalt" religions, but "be afraid" religions.

First, the poor ignorant create a job lot of gods and then they imagine a couple of million things the gods don't want them to do. Nearly everything is taboo. If a man happens to comb his hair on the third Tuesday after a full moon, he may be breaking a taboo he knows nothing about, but the punishment he has imagined for it is that his right arm will not off at the shoulder. It must be evident, even to the least thoughtful of us, that this sort of thing cramps a man's style.

SIR: The stars foretell that you are going abroad and we want to tell you that we hope every moment of your trip will be one of happiness without alloy.

There have been some very ponderous intellects go "over there" to size up the situation, but we prefer the flexible greatness of Just a Minute—the agile understanding that will dart in and out among little evasive phases for the gleams that will form the highlights in the picture.

We will believe everything that Socrates and Antine tell us, for we know they see true.

And don't forget the Free-Verse, of which we are especially fond, perhaps for the subjects it chooses; and perhaps because its lips of wisdom, like the Van Loon history-courses, are deliciously, upward.

In case you stand on the very spot (at Cambridge, wasn't it?) he desecrated in rewriting the Bible so that it would prove interesting and understandable to the ordinary mind, we hope our pain of lips will do justice to the other, however, as England will very much shocked over his procedure, remember "Safety First"—if you will just capture alive any rare species you find prowling around deserted thrones abroad and bring them back for our political zoo it will be all we can ask.

However, do not take any unnecessary risks; remember that Just a Minute needs you, and if we see it turned over to the Poets and Philosophers, and later on starting to quote extensively, we will know you are overstaying your time.

The reparations issue, as we see it, is a ticklish one. The British press is reinforced by pressure from the United States to have paid.

Our trips are our trips. We had only traveled in Mexico until you went; then, in reading what you had to say, we felt quite in touch with it. Now we are going overseas via Just a Minute—but no matter where it takes us or how much it makes us admire other countries it gives us ever a better and better patriotism.

Again, boy voyage—just the most successful best-time ever with "Welcome home" in the round-up.

The Conning Tower

There is considerable truth in the Freeman's "Where's the Humor of It?" in this week's issue. And then it gets down to the subject of columnists. "A columnist," it says, "could not be very funny if no one laughed at him." Well (a) he could; and (b) sometimes he isn't trying to be funny.

"We have been interested lately in noticing," the Freeman continues, "in some of our funny—or should one say funny?—columns, the frequent reiteration of a certain type of humor that seems to be supercilious and patronizing. If not downright cruel . . . The humor, we take it, is supposed to lie in the incongruity resulting from the temporary and fictitious adoption by an all-wise person of the simple-minded point of view of a person on a lower level of sophistication. We ought to remember off-hand some good examples of the sort of thing we mean, but this the best we can do: A contributor traveling abroad writes back: 'Arrived in London. This is one of their big cities and very interesting. Now this is funny, but when this same note is struck over and over again it begins to get a little tiresome, and when something is repeated from this same point of view, it becomes less and less funny, because the incongruity becomes less and less apparent,' and so on. Now the Freeman is distinctly unfair in citing this, and distinctly patronizing and supercilious in omitting to say that the reference is made to a contribution by Marc Connally to The Conning Tower of the New York World.

And the Freeman, to our notion, is cheating when it fails to print the rest of the contribution, which is the sole reason why it was printed. "I am about to fly to Paris in five minutes. Expect to return when it ends. Now that wasn't a comic jest; but it was funny. To the negligible few that knew Mr. Connally it was extremely funny; to the rest it was funny. And what is more important—in spite of the fact that the Freeman assumes that the columnist is writing what he thinks the readers will like—it was funny to us, and that is all we care a cuss about when we are trying to be funny.

Regarding the subject of plausibility to the wishes of readers, criticism, praises, etc., we stated our attitude a year and a half ago. Here it is again:

To our notion, Firpo's fighting prowess is not his greatest puissance. The lit'ry critics marvel over Joseph Conrad's ability to write English as well as he does, when he didn't know the language until he was more than 30 years of age. Consider, O critics, Mr. Firpo, who, overnight, you might say, achieves the art of expression in a till then, foreign tongue.

'SPRING MAID' VAPID IN TUNES AND COMEDY

Former Viennese Operetta Chosen to Bring 1928 Season to Dissolution.

By RICHARD L. STORES.

THE "SPRING MAID" will be the dissolution of the 1928 season, finds the Municipal Theater organism, artistically speaking, in a state of debility, not to say coma. The valentines work is a former Viennese operetta, "The Spring Maid," nominally by Heinrich Reinhardt, Julius Wilhelm and A. M. Willner. It was considered by the management worthy of reactivation from last summer's repertory.

The humor, we take it, is supposed to lie in the incongruity resulting from the temporary and fictitious adoption by an all-wise person of the simple-minded point of view of a person on a lower level of sophistication. We ought to remember off-hand some good examples of the sort of thing we mean, but this the best we can do: A contributor traveling abroad writes back: "Arrived in London. Now the Freeman is distinctly unfair in citing this, and distinctly patronizing and supercilious in omitting to say that the reference is made to a contribution by Marc Connally to The Conning Tower of the New York World.

And the Freeman, to our notion, is cheating when it fails to print the rest of the contribution, which is the sole reason why it was printed.

"I am about to fly to Paris in five minutes. Expect to return when it ends. Now that wasn't a comic jest; but it was funny. To the negligible few that knew Mr. Connally it was extremely funny; to the rest it was funny. And what is more important—in spite of the fact that the Freeman assumes that the columnist is writing what he thinks the readers will like—it was funny to us, and that is all we care a cuss about when we are trying to be funny.

Regarding the subject of plausibility to the wishes of readers, criticism, praises, etc., we stated our attitude a year and a half ago. Here it is again:

A Baudade of Indifference.
"Your stories are terrible stuff.
Decreasing in merit each day."
"Your flickering flame I would snuff!"

I don't care a whoop what you say.
"You ought to be pitching the hay,
Not wasting good paper and ink!"
"You ought to be driving a dray!"

I don't care a whoop what you say.
To think of your drawing down pay
For junk you should chuck in the sink!"

"I think you're a hick and a jay!"
I don't care a cuss what you think.

Your column is buncombe and bluff!"

"Your feet are the commonest clay!"

"I say that your morsels are tough!"

I don't care a whoop what you say.
To think of your drawing down pay
For junk you should chuck in the sink!"

"I think you're a hick and a jay!"
I don't care a cuss what you think.

Your rhymes are unfunny and rough!

Your paragraphs never say: "I'll say that I holler 'Enough!'"

I don't care a whoop what you say.
You think that I wrote with a wink?"

I don't care a cuss what you think.

L'ENVOL.

You say that I lie in this lay.
I don't care a whoop what you say.
You think that I wrote with a wink?"

I don't care a cuss what you think.

To our notion, Firpo's fighting prowess is not his greatest puissance. The lit'ry critics marvel over Joseph Conrad's ability to write English as well as he does, when he didn't know the language until he was more than 30 years of age. Consider, O critics, Mr. Firpo, who, overnight, you might say, achieves the art of expression in a till then, foreign tongue.

States could insure the national commission of investigation than American Institute of Technology at Washington plan. It has been timid in the meantime which might have been taken by London.

Still Safe to Spend in Glen Falls.

Traffic Officer Edward Cronk's new uniform has arrived, and he wore it Monday for the first time.

It is of khaki and is both attractive and cool. All he needs now is a motor cycle and speed maniacs in the upstate town a cele-first Seneca Falls conference which is at once a memorial of those two pioneers, and Lucretia Mott, and the Bok peace offer; and one of them is what many persons who think they ought to say it is a great thing about it.

Water Department Decides to Abandon Small Pipe Laying Job Temporarily.

Water Department activities were being carried on today as usual, with one minor exception, despite the fact that new employees have been at work since yesterday, replacing 90 inspection men and helpers who quit Saturday after being raised to $1.50 a day, half-holiday. About 100 men were hired yesterday. As many more applied for jobs today, but they were not needed.

A gang of 15 new workers was laying pipe in a new subdivision at Leon and Fillmore streets, South St. Louis, yesterday. Late in the afternoon, Ben Miller, their foreman, reported that four automobile loads of the former employees appeared and frightened the new men away. They also threatened him and warned neighbors to inform the Water Department of what had happened, he said. Because he believes it is hard to get police protection in that vicinity Water Commissioner Wall decided to abandon the project for the time being.

The men who quit belong to International Hod Carriers', Building and Common Laborers' Union, Local No. 389.

New Secret Organization Prepares to Launch a Newspaper Called "Common Horse Sense."

Special to the Post-Dispatch

MARSHALL, Ark., July 31.—The Order of Anti-Poke-Noses, an organization opposed to the Ku Klux Klan, is being organized in Searcy County, and so successful has been the movement that they claim to have won an election against a Klan candidate for the Board of Education.

The preamble to the Constitution states that the organization is opposed to any organization, such as the Klan, that attempts to attend to everyone's business but their own, and sets forth an abiding confidence in the duly constituted authorities who do not need to be "eternally prodded by the Ku Klux Klan," it is stated.

The Order of Anti-Poke-Noses is a secret organization, and the by-laws state that it is the duty of each member to keep his identity open at all times for any movement of the enemy. They are taking subscriptions here to found an Anti-Poke-Noses daily newspaper to be called "Common Horse Sense."

CLOTHING RUINED BY ACID

Man, 66, Arrested After Intruder

Breaks Into Woman's Home.

Mrs. Rose Gandsberg, 3811 Lemp avenue, told police that an intruder who invaded her home by breaking a window shutter and latch early yesterday poured some kind of acid into a wardrobe in her room, ruining a cloak and two dresses. Clothing in the room of August Klaes, a roomer, was ruined in the same fashion.

On information furnished by a neighbor, policemen arrested a man 66 years old, who, it was said, was seen near the home only yesterday and who, police reported, had a spot on the sleeve of his shirt similar to the marks left by the acid on the clothing in the Gandsberg home.

underwear threatens reprisals against Admiral Rodman.

Mrs. Harding, fatigued, rests in bed.

The trail trip is "off." For the last two or three days there have been almost hourly bulletins on the trail trip. Sometimes it has been "on," sometimes "off," and sometimes "on the fence." It has been, even more productive of conversation than the blazing midnight sun.

Originally, the President had planned to go by motor car over what is called the Richardson Trail, a distance of some 350 miles, from Fairbanks to Valdez. The railroad people in charge of the trip, which forms a link in an advertised tour, had made elaborate and expensive preparations to take the whole party over the trail. Roadhouses along the trail were stocked with food, one Army truck had been equipped with an electric lighting plant to go with the party and another had been outfitted with telegraph instruments for the use of the correspondents.

18 Miles on the Trail.

First, the President is going the 350 miles; then the trip is cut to 90, the party to come back to the rail line by a river steamer; then the trip is off. As a compromise we drive 18 miles out on the trail, turn around and come back. At least it can now be said that the President has hit the Richardson Trail. Those who swallowed dust on the 18 miles and back are grateful to the President for not taking them over the remaining 360 odd miles.

CUNO'S GOVERNMENT SAID TO BE THROUGH

No Successor as Chancellor in Sight. However — Changes
Await Session of Reichstag.

By SAMUEL SPEWACK.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch and New York Herald.
(Copyright, 1923, by the Post and Herald Publishers, Co., of St. Louis and the Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, July 31.—Although there is no successor in sight, unless it be the moderate industrialist leader, Gustav Stresemann, the Cuno Government seems definitely through. No change will be made until after the Reichstag convenes next week.

There never has been such confusion of internal policies as has been the big "actor" in the situation. In witnessed in the recent conference of Cabinet and party leaders with trade union representatives. All unite in the belief that there is a great danger, but differ as to what should be done about it.

The weakening of the Government is no reflection on Chancellor

Cuno personally. It is the inevitable reaction from the unrest engendered by the food shortage and the currency tangle.

The only crystallized result of the many conferences was a proposal by Stresemann, who is leader of the People's party, to President Ebert to take over the Government on one of two conditions. The first was granting of dictatorial powers that would enable him to deal drastically with speculation and the rapacity of big business. The other was formation of a broad coalition to include the Socialists, who are benevolently neutral toward the Government. But the Socialists shy at the idea of coalition with the Industrial People's party. It would give the communists a chance to charge Socialists with betraying the working class.

Apart from the proposal, however, was modified by the majority.

RIVER PILOT KILLED WHEN HIT BY TRUCK

Driver Took William Hunt to Hospital Where He Was Found to Have Fractured Skull.

William Hunt, 44 years old, a river pilot formerly in Government service, died at City Hospital early today of fracture of the skull suffered yesterday afternoon at Sixth and Cerre streets, when struck by a truck driven by Elmer Sanders, 34, a negro, owner of coal and express business at 280 South Tenth street.

Sanders told police he was driving north in Sixth street at a moderate rate. He said Hunt walked hurriedly from behind a southbound truck, crossing Sixth street to the east, and stepped into the path of the truck before it could be stopped.
Sanders took Hunt to City Hospital.
Traffic is heavy on Sixth street at Cerre at present. Seventh street being closed to southbound traffic for repairs.

Papers found in Hunt's possession indicate he formerly was pilot on a Government dredge boat in the Illinois
River. He has been rooming since
July 21 at 922 Chouteau avenue.
The proprietor at that address said he expected a letter advising him when he should resume work as a river pilot.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 31.—Fourth and fifth round matches in the thirty-second annual Western baseball championship tournament will be completed here this afternoon. Walter Hayes, local star, is further advanced than any of the others, having won his fourth-round contest yesterday.

Wray Brown of St. Louis, Missouri Valley champion, advanced to the fourth round yesterday. He defeated C. J. Weber, 6—1; Harry Strotz, 6—0, 6—1; and L. D. Levitt, 6—0.

Walter Westbrook of Detroit, who last week was the winner in the Michigan State final, also captured three matches, eliminating L. E. Bailey, Frank O'Connell and D. W. H. Thwaites, champion of Grand Rapids.

A big upset came in the win of Allen Behr, former New York star, over F. J. Mangan, Washington, D. C. champion and No. 3 in the Middle Atlantic district, rating 6—3, 6—0, 6—1, at the victory of 12-year-old Ernest Peck, a Chicago youth, who is national boy clay court champion, over H. T. Osborne of Gary, 6—4, 6—2.

John Hennessy, Indianapolis, who is defending his singles title here, won his matches in easy fashion. He beat Jack Brynes, 6—1, 6—1, then Frank Myers, University of Illinois star, 6—1, 6—0, and F. S. Weadley, 6—2, 6—4.

George Lott, city net champion, and one of Chicago's hopes to the title, swept through his opening three matches.

CLEVELAND, O., July 31.—Carrie Walker's attempt to swim across Lake Erie from Point Pelee, Lighthouse on the Canadian side to the Lorain, O., Lighthouse, was postponed for 24 hours today. He is now scheduled to make the start at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. Failure to get a steam launch to accompany him on the swim caused the postponement.

Ernie Osborne of the Chicago Nationals got away in a power start when Ford stuck him for a home run with the bases filled, which gave the Boston Nationals the jump. Chicago rallied toward the finish after Ruth Marquard was forced to retire after being hit on the face with a hard grounder in the seventh inning, but was unable to overtake the lead.

John McGraw's Checkbook Champions Are Not Likely to be Worried by a Temporary Check

Giants Have Been Ahead Every Weekend Since July 29, 1922

Starting on Sept. 17, 1921, McGraw's Men Have Trained on Only Two Saturdays, While Showing Way on 40 — Scott Not Anxious to Continue Successive Game Mark.

By John B. Foster.

(Copyright, 1923.)

NEW YORK, July 31.—This is the tale of a baseball record just made, and it is particularly interesting at this time, when the New York Giants are having such a tough fight on their hands to hold the lead in the National League.

On July 29, 1922, the Giants took first place on the regular week end with St. Louis second. The week before, July 22, New York had lost the lead to the Cardinals. Prior to July 22 the Giants had been in the lead on the week-end for all season except on April 22, when Chicago was the top tier.

When July 29 rolled around again the Giants still held the lead, having completed exactly one week without being out of the lead on the week end. If you combine that with the complete record for 1922—the Giants have been out of the lead on a week-end—that is a regular Saturday, but twice since the season of 1922 began.

What wonder that the Giants and the lead have come to be regarded more or less as one. They did not make a successful run in first place in 1921 because the Pittsburgh team had them under their grip much of the time, but near the end of the season, September 17 week-end to be exact, they went into first place and there they remained.

This is a Real Record. That adds to the story of the Giants because it will be noted that with two exceptions they have been in front every week-end except those of April 22 and July 22, 1922. The total number of week ends that the Giants have been in the lead since September 17, 1921, is 40. It takes a regular ball team to make a record like that.

No matter if they have any pitchers, and sometimes it looks as if they were shy of pitchers, or whether

Sisler Plays 18 Holes of Golf at Algonquin Club

Browns' Star Says Condition Has Greatly Improved and Hopes to Play Before Season Closes.

By Joseph F. Holland.

George Sisler, who has been absent from the line-up of the Browns all season following a severe attack of sinusitis with resulting double vision, played 18 holes of golf Sunday at the Algonquin Club and the result of nine game indicated no evidence of seriously impaired vision. George said that his condition had improved greatly and that he still had high hopes of playing with the Browns before the present season concluded.

"I can play golf now and hit the ball with as much regularity and as cleanly as I ever did," he said, smiling. "Of course, I never did threaten Chick Evans but what I mean is that I have no trouble meeting the ball. That represents big improvement in the condition of my eyes and while the advance is slow, I am pleased that the improvement is steady and consistent."

"I am not ready to play baseball as yet. There is a very material difference between hitting a little white ball off the tee and following a curve ball thrown with great speed. However, I feel certain that it is only a question of time now until my sight will be normal again."

Where Sisler Would Go.

The Browns still have 61 games to play. If Sisler can play half, or even 20 of them, he will help the Browns materially in their fight for second place. The team has no chance to make the great race against the Yanks that they made last year but it can beat out Cleveland for second place with any sort of a break in the luck of the game.

Cleveland has only two dependable pitchers, Uhle and Coeleske, whereas Shooker, Danforth, Vergeiller and Wright are pitching good ball for the Browns now. The impetus of Sisler's presence in the line-up at the close of the season would be just the spark needed to carry the club over the last few games in a real spurt.

Sisler is following the Browns closely through the agency of the game play-by-play accounts of the games. He was particularly pleased yesterday with the showing of Marv McManus in the first game at Philadelphia. Sisler was the first man in the Brownie camp in the spring of 1921 to pick McManus as the club's second baseman when Billy Gleason held the job.

DEMSEY WILL REACH NEW YORK ON FRIDAY

DENVER, Colo., July 30.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, plans an active vacation at Spring, N. Y., Friday morning, and after resting a few days, will get down to the actual work of training for his fight with Luis Angel Firpo at Polo Grounds, New York, on September 14, he announced here yesterday. Dempsey said he planned to be willing to pit his man against McTigue for expenses only—$2500.

Jimmy Russo to Box Here Twice In Next 5 Days

Clever Flyweight Fights Kid Sparks Tomorrow and Roy Moore Monday.

By John E. Wray.

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Jimmy Russo either is going to win a home in St. Louis or go down trying hard. This little bantam of the ring world, who pleased a crowd at the Coliseum a short time ago by defeating Jimmy Murphy, has accepted a challenge from the two to take place within five days of each other.

Russo's first effort will be made tomorrow night, at Battery A drill yard, where he will attempt to scramble one Ward "Kid" Sparks, a tough little proposition from Terre Haute. Sparks is not in the haberdashery business, but he has a fine line of assorted "socks." He handed a few of the same to two of our well-known citizens, to wit: Mr. Franklin Osser and Mr. Mike Murphy, both clever mitten. It is fair to assume that Russo will be easily received and entertained, in his 10-round engagement tomorrow night.

Probably he will be able to box for a few days after Aug. 5, five days later, when he engages Roy Moore of East St. Louis in an eight-round anteclimax to the Firpo-Cowler fight at St. Louis Stars' baseball park.

Moore is not so well known here, but Matchmaker Leo Heyman of the Angelica Club indicates that he has stepped around in a class with some fair flyweights and bantams, such as Mutt McGhee, Bobby Hughes and Artie.

But to Follow Main Event.

The arrangement and, more especially the placing of this match on the card AFTER the main event may serve two purposes. If Firpo converts Cowler into a canvas-kisser in a few seconds, the disappointed mob may be cajoled into waiting for the next bout instead of wrecking the grand stand. On the event may aid in the dispersal of the expected thousands more gradually.

The management expects part of the crowd to depart, when the main event is over and not wait for the final, thus permitting the better part of the thousands who are likely to attend.

Tomorrow night's show at the Battery A drill-yard ought to supply a few thrills between the Russo-Sparks bout on one hand and the Kermie-Kernie bantam bout on the other.

If Bandy's broken hand now has two bad ones—can stand the strain, there will be an interesting, not to say exciting, 10 rounds in front of Kernie, who stands up in class in the exhibition world. Bandy's right hand now seems to be strong: it was his left hand that cracked during his training for a Chicago contest.

Wendy Hands Costly to Bandy.

Bandy's hands have cost him the sands of doubt and anxiety, caused by the first time he suffered a broken metacarpal bone he received $300 for his end of the show and was idle for a year. He could not work at his regular occupation, chauffeur, for the $300 he earned a fifteen and several hundred in addition were wiped out by the accident.

Bandy should prove too experienced for Kernie, unless he has gone back to Bandy's right hand now seems to be strong: it was his left hand that cracked during his training for a Chicago contest.

Joe Baker vs. Bobby Lee and Ray Steiger vs. Tom Smith will warm up the popular excitement in two four-round preliminaries.

For the Angelica Club's show next week, the club will arrange Matchmaker Heyman announced today. The advance sale of tickets has been an agreeable surprise to the Angelica Club, which is promoting the show.

Ringside seats at $2.50 are most in demand.

RATNER BEATS LEWIS IN 20-ROUND BATTLE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—Auggie Ratner of New York last night defeated Ted "Kid" Lewis, former middleweight champion, on points in a 20-round bout.

The first 10 rounds were uninteresting; there was considerable fighting and Lewis was warned frequently for hitting low. In the eighth Ratner forced the fighting, punishing Lewis severely about the head.

Ratner hooked Ratner in the fourteenth and the blood flowed from the corner of the eye when the blow landed. Lewis was holding on to his fourteenth. Lewis fought for a hand-to-hand bout with fierce rights, but they fell short of the jaw. Ratner countered with a hard straight right, which staggered his opponent.

Lewis showed a greater advantage in the eighteenth, landing a number of hard smashes, but the last two rounds were tame, with honors in Ratner's favor.

Wall Street
News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Today's market gave the impression of considerable weakness in some direction combined with very fair resistance in others. Severe declines occurred in a number of stocks but the greater part of the market was down only fractionally.

Extreme weakness in the oil shares and in some of the rails was the feature in the market today. There were no new developments in the oil trade situation.

Today's selling in the oils represented the forcing out, some thought, of large blocks of speculatively held stock undermined by the protracted decline.

It was no longer shares of the Northwestern roads which led the decline in the rails. Attention was drawn once more to the St. Paul situation by the sharp break of the previous day in the company's bonds. The fall in the long term refunding bonds to almost a flat 8 per cent basis attracting attention.

The Missouri Pacific were even weaker than the St. Pauls. Previous to yesterday morning the common stock had not broken 11. Today it dropped to 9, while the preferred yielded nearly 4 points.

Sugar stocks paid more attention than they had yesterday to the latest outcome of price cutting and the decline in Cuban raws below the 5 cent level. Puma Alegre made a new low for the year in Cuban American common and Cuban Cana preferred were almost equally weak.

The quarterly report of United States Steel was not published until after the close, but the stock was forced down to a new low, because of the general market unsettlement.

There was certainly nothing to complain about in the Studebaker figures revealing nearly $5.50 earned on the common stock for the second quarter and the amount of business on the books was in sight. Yet Studebaker stock fell with the rest.

Had good news counted for anything the American Locomotive report for the first half year would have shown more than it did in the stock. Earnings of $24 a share were shown.

The low prices were reached as a rule in the first half of the afternoon. Then followed an irregular recovery.

The Bond Market.

Bond prices were unduly again today, but trading was not very active. The high grade investment issues which are responsive generally only to changes in the money market were fairly steady and even in a few cases higher. United States Government bonds were lower. The tax exempt 3 1/4% sold down almost to par and there was fairly active selling of the treasury 4 1/4% with a resulting decline in quotations. The third 4 1/4% were also comparatively heavy.

The fractional advances in the high-grade rails and industrials came in such bonds as Pennsylvania general 4 1/4%, Union Pacific first 4%, American Telephone and Telegraph collateral trust 5% and in Northern Pacific prior 11 1/4%.

Speculative rails were weak, but not as weak as their respective stocks.

There was little change in the foreign list although the new Austrian 7% made a low record below 8%.

PARTY OF SCOTS INVESTIGATING PROHIBITION

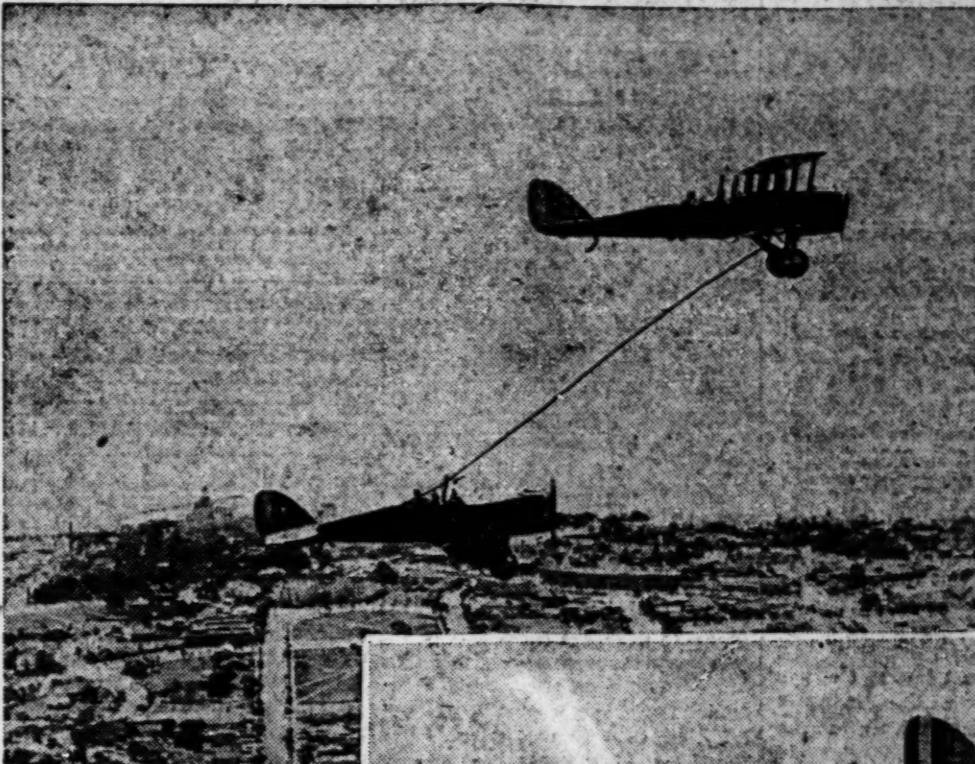

Scotland, which produces a large amount of whisky, has many prohibitionists, teetotalers and temperance societies. These seven men have been sent to America to investigate the workings of the 18th Amendment. They listen a great deal and say absolutely nothing. From left to right, they are: E. M. Burnie, R. Manson, R. Gibson, William Swan, J. Johnston, W. P. Livingstone and J. N. Monroe. —Underwood & Underwood.

THE SMALLEST SEAPLANE IN THE WORLD

The U. S. Navy submarine plane was tested at the Naval Air Station at Anacostia, July 27. This tiny plane is for use on submarines at sea. They are now being produced in quantity for the Navy. It is expected to have them in service with submarines within one month. The plane is made of wood and wire. These are the smallest seaplanes made. Eighteen feet is the longest over-all dimension of the craft. This is the span between wing tips. The total weight is scarcely a thousand pounds, including the three-cylinder 60-horsepower engine.

Its ingenious construction enables it to be knocked down into small unit sections which can be stowed in a small space and carried securely while the submarine cruises under water. When it is desired to send out an air scout or observer, the parts are rapidly assembled and in a few minutes the plane is in flight. In effect it gives to the submarine a periscope several thousand feet high.

THE LAST OF
"PANCHO" VILLA

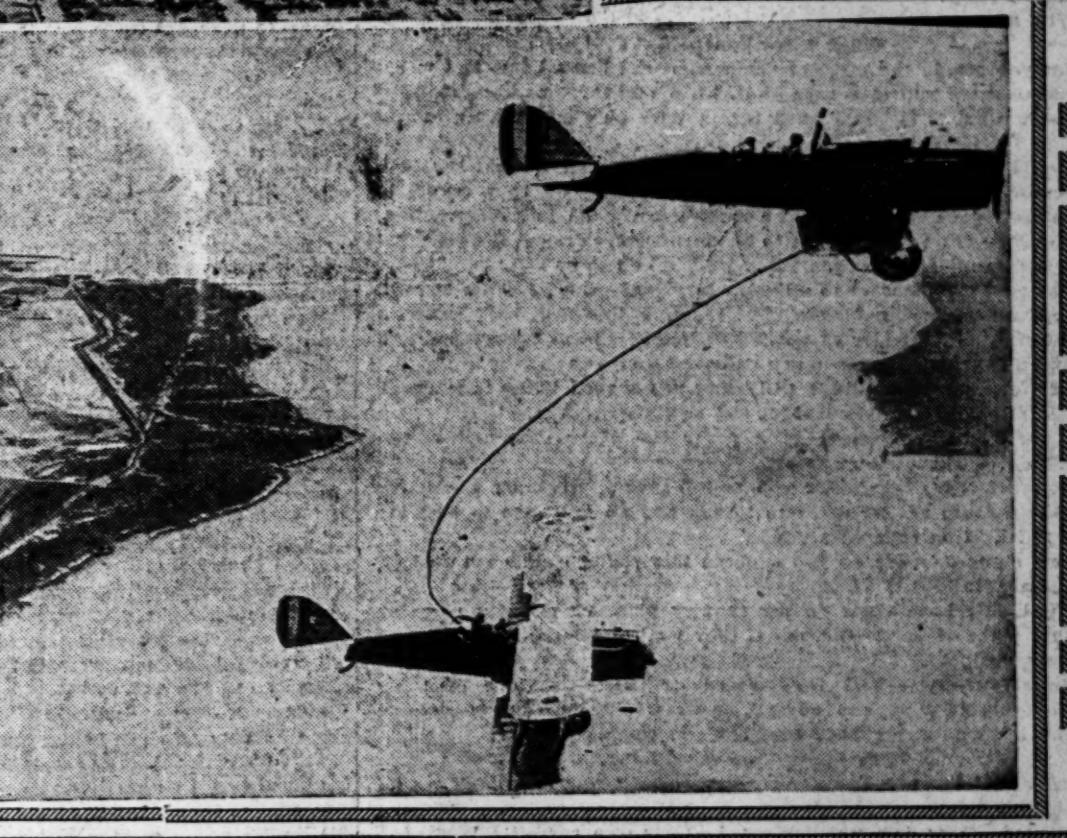

His friends hoped to lay the bandit chieftain in the magnificent tomb he had built years before in Chihuahua City, but authorities of Chihuahua objected, so he was buried in the cemetery at Parral, near which he was killed. The photograph shows the hearse passing through Parral. —International.

AMERICANS
DECORATED
BY THE KING
OF GREECE

Miss Gertrude Anthony of Los Angeles and Col. S. E. Lowe of St. Louis were among the eleven Americans who received the cross of St. Xavier for work with refugees from Asia Minor. Lowe accompanied the 138th Infantry to France as its Lieutenant-Colonel, and since the war has been with the Red Cross. —Underwood & Underwood for Miss Anthony. —Roch for Lowe.

THE REASON THE LITTLE BOY IS CRYING

He is Nicholas J. Sharkey, and he is 5 years old. The photograph was made on the Leviathan, which craft is carrying Nicholas to England to visit his grandparents. He is going all alone and the tears were occasioned by the parting from his parents. It is a big ocean for a little boy to cross by himself on such a big ship. —Underwood & Underwood.

HOW AN AIRPLANE TOOK ON FUEL IN THE AIR

Two photographs which graphically explain how the refueling experiment in California recently was successfully carried out. The upper plane, which carried the supply to be transferred to the lower, dropped a hose, the lower end of which was let into the gas tank below. Then, while the planes maintained approximately the same speed and altitude, the gas flowed by gravity from the upper tank to the lower. —Kadel & Herbert.

SELLING YOUR SERVICES

By WINIFRED BLACK

HE'S alone in town—except for her little 5-year-old boy—and she's out of a job and she's frightened almost to death.

The other day she went to the newspaper offices to put in an advertisement for work, and there was something about her advertisement that made it sound not as if she were looking for work, but as if she were looking for a husband—and the newspapers wouldn't publish it.

And now the little woman from out of town is angry and bewildered as well as discouraged and frightened.

And that's really too bad.

And it's all absolutely unnecessary.

The whole trouble is that this little woman wrote her advertisement right straight from the bottom of her heart and in it she asked for just exactly what she wants—a home, appreciation, a quiet life and shelter from the sharp anxieties of a world full of busy competition.

But she didn't say a word about what the person she wants to find will want.

What can she do, how she can do it, how much money she expects—upon these subjects she was as silent as the grave.

She seems to think that people who read the "situations wanted" advertisements are looking for people to help and comfort and protect.

They are not. They're looking for people who will help, comfort and protect them.

Why not?

What Have You to Sell?

Put yourself in the place of the person who has a home and wants someone to come and take care of it, little woman.

Think what it is you'd want if you were able and willing to pay for it.

Would you be willing to offer yourself as a pair of crutches or a wheel-chair, when what you want is someone who will be a crutch to you and roll your wheel-chair? Nobody's interested in your troubles, little woman—maybe they ought to be, but they aren't, and the principal reason is that almost everyone has a trouble or two of his own.

You are in the market to sell your services—what have you to sell? Good sense, good nature, a light heart, willing feet, busy hands, a pleasant smile, the faculty of putting yourself into the background and not expecting people to pay much attention to you?

Any one of these things will bring you a good living if you will offer it for sale in the right market and be plain about it.

I saw an advertisement in a paper the other day, and it ran something like this:

"Wanted, by young American and his wife, work on a country place where there are no relatives to nag and no outsiders to butt in; do not relish being ordered around."

How many answers do you suppose this young couple got to that advertisement?

I wouldn't have them on my country place or my city place or any other place on earth—no, not if they worked for nothing and were absolutely competent.

"Outsiders—nag—but in—ordered around,"—any one of these four thoughts in that one advertisement would lose this particular man and his wife any chance anywhere on earth.

Put Yourself in His Place.

And yet, I suppose, those two people wonder why they don't get on faster in this world.

Wanted—their own way. Wanted—their own conceit. Wanted—a sake for their own foolish vanity. Wanted—Independence, consideration, position, comfort, easy work, a pleasant home—in return for what?

"Put yourself in his place"—didn't somebody once write a book about that? If I were going to advertise for a job I'd try to put myself in the place of the person who is going to read it. I wonder if it would work?

What Science Does to Relieve "Watery Eyes"

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator From New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

OCASSIONALLY you meet a man who has watery and watery eyes. The lids are red and sometimes they turn outward away from the eyeballs.

The tears run down the cheeks. The constant moisture of the skin may be followed by chafing and soreness. Clinging to the eyelashes are cakes of dried mucus.

The general appearance of the eye is repulsive. The face, too, is marred by the disfigured lids.

What is the cause of watery eyes and what can be done to relieve the trouble?

Almost always leaky eyes are due to inflammation of the lining membrane of the lids and of the covering of the eyeballs. This membrane is called the "conjunctiva," and its inflammation is known as "conjunctivitis."

There are glands known as the "lacrimal glands" or tear glands. These manufacture the tears which flow across the eyeballs and are drained away through the tear sac and nasal duct.

Neat the inner corner of the eye is a small elevation on the edge of each lid. At the top of this prominence is an opening—a tiny, almost invisible opening. Through these drainage places all the tears must pass or else they overflow the lids and run down the cheeks.

In conjunctivitis the mucous membrane is thickened. As a result, the tiny openings are swollen shut and the eyes become watery and watery.

As the conjunctiva thickens there are itching and irritation, causing the victim to rub and fuss with his lids. This habit produces further infection, more mucus and real pus.

Out-of-door occupation with exposure to wind and weather, also dirt, chemical fumes and tobacco smoke, may start a local irritation, which may be the beginning of changes in the lids, with watery eyes as a result.

DAILY DOUBLE FROM NOW ON

By FRANK L. PACKARD

A CONTINUED STORY

HERE are several reasons why even good cooks sometimes fail to make good ice cream—the chief reason is imperfect freezing. The ice must always be broken fine enough to pack closely. For this purpose the wooden-mallet and canvas-bag are good investments. Plenty of the rock-salt must be used. As the freezing goes on in the crank-driven freezer, the ice should be frequently broken down into the pail with a short, stout stick. As the ice is broken down add more ice, also broken finely.

Another mistake is to add sugar and expect it to melt in the cold mixture. Because it does not, and this seriously affects the smooth texture of the cream. The needed amount of sugar added to uncooked liquids to be frozen perfectly should be measured, melted by the addition of a little boiling water, milk or fruit juice, then cooled before using. Another important thing to remember in making the frozen fruit ice creams is that the fruit and sugar should be put into a saucerman and melted together, then cooked gently for just a few minutes to take the rawness from the fruit. Then cool it and it will be soft and rich in the cream and not hard and frozen.

Tutti Frutti Cream.

Sweeten one quart of heavy cream with a half-cupful of honey and a cupful of sugar melted with a quarter-cupful of water. Add a dessert-spoonful of vanilla and one cupful of drained preserved marmons chopped coarsely, a half-cupful of candied cherries, the same of candied pineapple, a table-spoonful of seed and chopped raisins and a table-spoonful of minced candied orange peel. Mix well and turn into the freezer: freeze until stiff and stand an hour to ripen before serving the cream. This cream does not need a sauce.

Brown Bread Ice Cream.

Crumble one slice of stale brown bread with two stale sponge cakes into a double-boiler, with a half-pound of sugar, a half-pint of milk and a pint of cream. Stir gently until the mixture thickens slightly, then allow it to cool. When cool, add two slices of the stale brown bread crumbled and then sifted in, a dessert-spoonful of vanilla and a small glassful of strained, rich fruit juice, preferably peach or pineapple. Freeze in the usual way. This cream is good without a sauce or with a maple sauce.

Ginger Ice Cream.

Drain off the syrup of one cupful of preserved ginger, and chop the pieces very fine, then mix with the syrup. Add the juice, after straining, of a large fresh lemon and a pint of heavy cream. Melt a half-pint of sugar in a quarter-cupful of water. Cool it, then add it to the mixture, stir well and pour into the freezer. This is an easy, inexpensive cream and very good.

He liked Millman; and somehow Millman seemed to like him. A gentleman from the tip of his fingers was Millman—and he took his medicine like a gentleman. Millman wasn't the name that was entered on the prison books—there it was Charlie Reith.

It was strange that Millman should have given him his confidence; he could never quite understand that, except that it had seemed to come gradually as their friendship grew, until finally it was almost the basis of that friendship itself. He had come to trust Millman as he had never trusted any other man, and he had come to believe in Millman as the soul of courtesy and honor. And yet he had not been quite as open with Millman as Millman had been with him; he had not spread his cards upon the table, and Millman had never asked to see them; and somehow he liked the man all the better for that. It was not that he did not trust the other; it was because his confidence was not the sort of confidence to give to an honest man—and Millman was honest. There was a queer twist to it all!

Dave Henderson smiled grimly again. It wouldn't be fair to make an honest man a party to the secret of where that money was, for instance, would it—to make an honest man an accomplice after the fact? And there was no doubt of Millman's clean-cut, courageous honesty.

Danny Has a Close Call.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Who always does his very best
Alone is fit to meet life's test.

HERE is such a thing as being too safe. Yes, sir, there is such a thing as being too safe. It is a good thing to have to watch out for danger at least once in a while. Those who don't have to are apt to forget that there is such a thing as danger.

This is the way it was with Danny Meadow Mouse. Since he and Nanny had made their home in the old scarecrow in Farmer Brown's cornfield they hadn't been in danger once. Of course none of their enemies ever thought to look for them in such a place as that old scarecrow. So day after day, and night after night, they played about and went and came as they pleased. At first Danny had kept a sharp watch for possible danger as he had been obliged to do all his life. But as the days went by he thought of danger less and less often, and finally not at all.

Early one morning he ran over to the Green Meadows which began just beyond the fence that bounded Farmer Brown's cornfield.

Nanny had gone to get his breakfast.

He was busily eating a blade of grass when happening to look behind him he saw the grass moving as if some one were creeping through it very softly. It was just pure good luck that Danny had looked back when he did. Through the grass stems he saw something black. It was Black Pussy the Cat from Farmer Brown's house!

Danny dropped his piece of grass and started to run. Black Pussy's ears must have caught the faint sound of Danny's footsteps, for instantly she sprang. She all but landed on Danny's short tail. Danny squeaked with fright, and my, my, how he did run! It didn't seem as if those short legs of his could move so fast.

Now it is probable that if the grass had been short I would have no more stories to write about Danny Meadow Mouse. But the grass was tall, and Black Pussy couldn't see Danny. She had to be guided by her ears and by movements of the grass as Danny ran through it. Several times she all but pounced on him. It was a long time since Danny had been in such danger.

At first Danny was too frightened to get there! He kept saying over and over to himself as he ran. And it seemed somehow as if just saying that over and over helped him to run faster. He did get there, but only just in the very nick of time. Just as he whisked in through the little round hole in the end of that old Black Pussy made a last swift spring, and Danny actually felt one of her claws. He squeaked with fright and pain, and then he was inside. He was safe for the present. But it had been a close call. Had he had to run any further Black Pussy certainly would have caught him.

In 1525 Franchesco was mortally wounded at Milan. Vittoria was crushed and hurried to see him before he died. But it was too late. He breathed his last before his adoring wife could reach him.

Vittoria returned to her little island and lived in seclusion for 10 years, declining the many offers of marriage which were pressed upon her.

Here she began to write, and from her pen come the "Rime Spirituali," which is by far her most distinguished work.

In 1538 Vittoria went to Rome. She was the most beautiful woman of that city, and at the same time the leader of society and letters. But her crowning success was the wonderful friendship it was her privilege to form. For with the great Michel Angelo Vittoria enjoyed one of the truly beautiful friendships of the Renaissance.

Michel Angelo was 65. Vittoria was a beautiful woman. Between them passed many exquisite letters in the form of sonnets. It is said that Vittoria was the real inspiration of much of the great artist's work.

Although many suitors sought her hand, including the Duke of Saxe and the Duke of Braganza, Vittoria had no desire save to marry her playmate, Franchesco, which she did when she had just passed her seventeenth year.

For five years they were very happy on this sheltered island, protected from the strife which was raging between Naples and Rome, and between France and Spain.

Then Franchesco heard the call to arms, and offered his sword to the Holy League. He enlisted at Lavena and immediately set out for France.

Franchesco Pescara soon became one of the most brilliant of the Captains of Charles the Fifth, under whom he served. At the price of treason the crown of Naples was offered to him, but it was Vittoria who influenced him to decline it.

There is nothing more beautiful in the history of reigning families of Europe than the romance of these two children, who spent their early years on their beautiful island of the Bay of Naples, with the thought in their young hearts that one day they would be married.

In the year 1494, on the beautiful island of Ischia in the Bay of Naples, a little girl played in the sunshine and ran along the sandy pebbles.

She was the daughter of Fabrizio Colonna, the Grand Constable of Naples. Her mother was a daughter of the "Good Duke" Frederick of Urbino, so this child was "of the purple."

So distinguished was her father that Ferdinand, of Aragon, King of Naples, commanded her marriage with Franchesco Pescara of a family of the island of Ischia.

The betrothal took place at Vittoria—for that was her name—4 years old.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

"O H. Carpenter," the Walrus said.
"Why don't they raise your pay?
I notice that the plasterers
Get fourteen bucks a day;
I think you are entitled to
At least as much as they."

"You said it," said the Carpenter.
"With you I quite agree;
If it weren't for the carpenters,
Where would the plasterers be?
They couldn't plaster anything.
As one can plainly see."

"Oh, I don't know," the Walrus said.
"For, when it comes to that,
Just take the guys that lay the stone.
Their wages should be fat.
With no foundation for the house,
Pray, where would you be at?"

"I see," replied the Carpenter.
"The point that you would raise;
Upon each other we depend
In many different ways.
The toter of the bricks should get
As much as he that lays."

FAVORITE STORIES

THE DEADLY BLOW.

THE late Alf T. Ringling of Ringling Brothers loved the lore of the circus. In his library he had countless books and pictures and documents and ancient posters all pertaining to life under the big tops. Also, he knew hundreds of anecdotes, humorous and otherwise, modern and ancient, which related to some aspect or another of the business which he, all his active life, had followed. A year or two before his death he told me this one:

It was back in the days before the Ringling show had attained large proportions, when Barnum & Bailey's circus was, as its billing proclaimed, "The Greatest Show on Earth." James A. Bailey was the junior partner in the mighty enterprise, but that master showman, P. T. Barnum, being still in good health, remained in active charge.

The aggregation, with its menagerie, its three rings and its elevated stages and hippodrome track, and all, was touring the South. A day or two earlier, an acrobat who just had closed with a traveling burlesque troupe—by special request of its manager—applied for a job with the circus and was given one. His act did not give full satisfaction to the ring director, who so reported to Mr. Barnum, and the latter sent for the new performer and told him that his work fell short of the desired standard.

"You recommended yourself pretty highly when you came around the other day," said Mr. Barnum. "In fact, as I recall, you told me you were the best man in your line anywhere. Now I hear that you haven't made good."

Being an artist, the young man naturally had his share of temperament.

"Is that so?" he answered, with heavy sarcasm. "Well, lemme tell you somethin': There ain't nobody can reflect on my abilities without answerin' to me. Why, I'm the guy that's makin' the show what it is. If I hear any more of this sort of talk, I'll quit!"

"All right, then, quit," said the famous showman.

"You said it," answered the indignant trouper. "I'm out. I've resigned. Do you know what that means, Mr. Barnum?"

"I think so," said the older man. "It means you've quit."

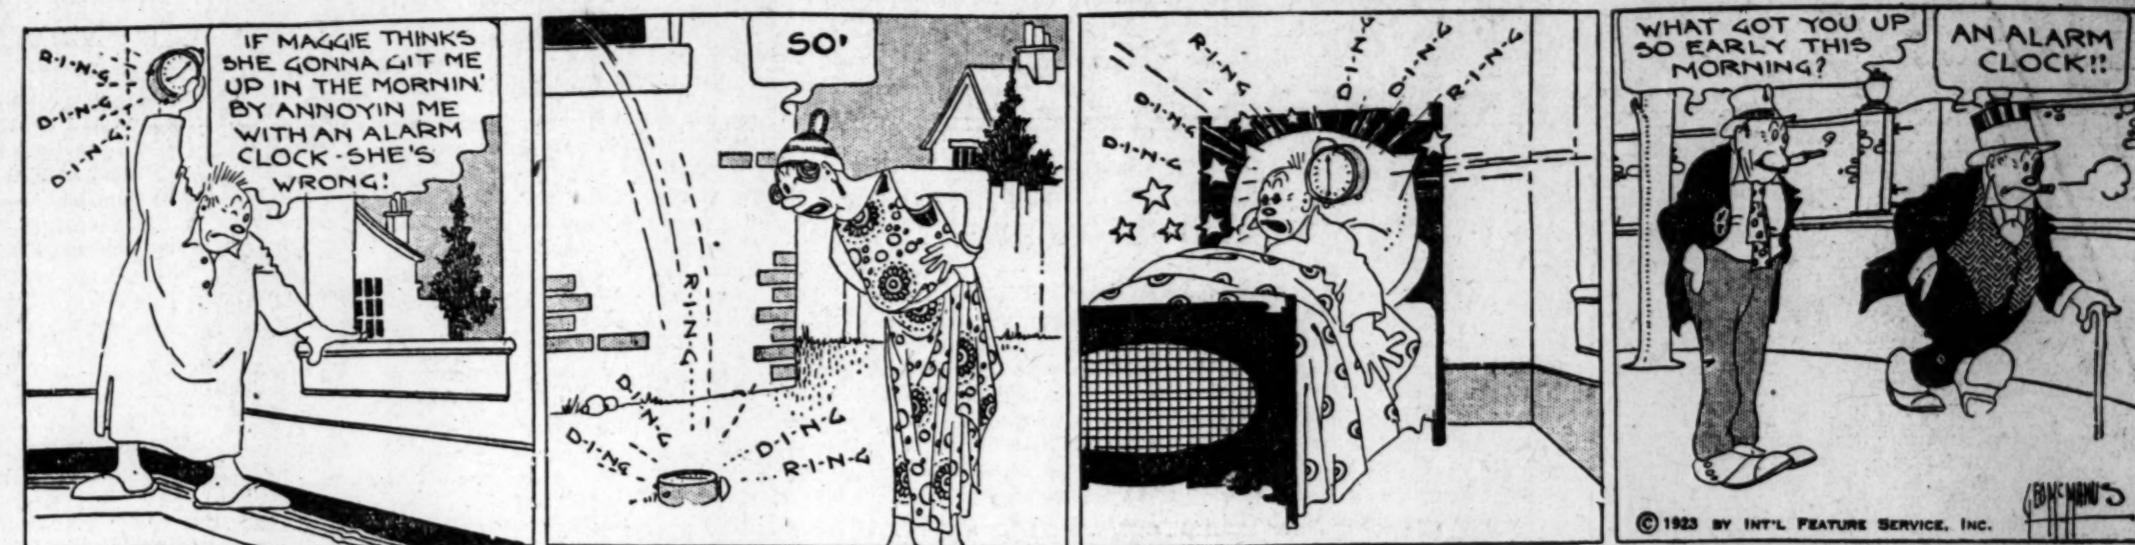

"Think again. Do you happen to know what town this is?"

"Certainly I do—Pine Bluff."

"Now you've got it. Here, right in the middle of the season, I'm leavin' Barnum & Bailey's circus flat on its back in Pine Bluff, Ark."
